REPORT BOMBS DROPPED FIRED REFUGEE YACHT

Craft Said To Be Ablaze Somewhere In Bay of Biscay

ARMISTICE MOVE IS PROPOSED

Germany and Italy Declared Willing To Join Discussions

By The Associated Press.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 21.—Insurgent Spaniards broadcast today an announcement that incendiary bombs, dropped during an insurgent-Basque government air battle, had fired the Basque yacht Goizeko-Izarra, carrying refuges out of Bilbao.

An insurgent communique said the yacht was ablaze "somewhere in the Bay of Biscay."

Although the communique said the Goizeka-Izarra was carrying an undisclosed number of refugees "to England," it was believed she was bound, instead, for Bordeaux, where she landed 500 Bilbao children on a previous trip. It was not known whether any children were aboard at present.

(A large ship, the Spanish steamer Habana, was selected to carry 4,000 children from Bilbao to Southampton).

There were other insurgent reports that the ship was carrying several high officials of the Basque government as well as 7,000,000 pesetas worth of jewels and silver belonging to members of the Basque cabinet.

But nothing more definite concerning her passengers or cargo was immediately available.

A bombardment which followed a prolonged aerial "dog fight" was said to have set the yacht afire. During the battle, insurgents said, one government plane was shot down.

On land Bilbao's mud-smeared militiamen went over the top today in a series of stabbing counterattacks to beat insurgent invaders back from the city's last line of fortifications.

The counter-drives, launched yesterday with support of a squadron of government planes, were reported by the Basque defense council to have put Italian-reinforced forces of Gen. Emilio Mola to flight in the Munguia sector, nine miles north of the Basque capital.

Armistice Possibility

LONDON, May 21.—Proposals for an armistice in the Spanish civil war and for the withdrawal of foreign volunteers moved towards actuality today with authoritative assurances that no Eropean power outside Spain will object.

Germany and Italy were said authoritatively to have been the greatest stumbling blocks to the twin plans for restoring peace in embittered Spain, but well-informed diplomatic personages said both now would join general discussions.

The British government, through its own ambassadors, has been seeking to learn the attitude of foreign nations on the armistice for some time. It was reliably disclosed that they have encountered no refusals for active consideration of the plan.

A special technical committee of the 27-nation "hands off Spain" group discussed the possibility of withdrawals of foreign troops from the civil war today and pressed the delegates to obtain their government's flat approval of an armistice.

The Spanish government's efforts to bring the civil war before the League of Nations, meanwhile, were received cooly in Whitehall. Informed quarters contended that an armistice before the league convenes next week would prevent serious considerations of the Spanish demands at Geneva.

Great Britain was said to be pressing her Spanish peace plans through the non-intervention committee rather than through the League of Nations.

Search For Missing Body

BELTON, Mo., May 21.—More than 100 citizens of Belton spent much of the night with flashlights and automobile headlights in a futile search for 12-year-old Charles Franklin Pitts who disappeared about 6 p. m. yesterday from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Pitts.

PREDICT ENDEAVOR FOR 40-HOUR WEEK

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Congressmen closely in touch with labor matters predicted today the administration's general labor legislation would seek to establish a 40-hour work week and a basic minimum wage of 40 cents an hour.

The administration bill, to be recommended by President Roosevelt in a special message to congress, will be introduced by Chairman Connery (D., Mass.), of the house labor committee.

Connery would not discuss details. But other members said the provisions of the bill probably would be flexible so as to take care of industries having labor problems peculiar to themselves.

The bill, they indicated, would set up a commisison to work out details of the program. They said the commission probably would have power to fix maximum hours in some cases of 35 hours a week and to establish minimum wages in brackets ranging up to a limit of $1,500 a year.

The bill was expected to provide a flat prohibition against child labor.

E. M. SHIELDS DIES SUDDENLY IN A HEART ATTACK

Former City and Later County Treasuer Passes Away at Home

Edward M. Shields, for more than forty years a resident of Sedalia died suddenly at his home, 306 West Fifth street, at 8:15 o'clock this morning, less than fifteen minutes after he had suffered a heart attack.

Mr. Shields had not been feeling well for two or three days, but was up and around as usual. This morning Miss Alice Summers, who rooms at the home, heard him calling from the door of his bedroom. She called Mrs. Shields who was downstairs, and summoned a physician, but before the doctor arrived he had passed away. Death, according to the physician, was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Shields was born in Ohio in 1861. He was married to Miss Laura P. Kennedy, in Lincoln, Mo., Sept. 19, 1884, who survives him, as does one daughter, Mrs. J. L. Whittenmyer of Kansas City, formerly Miss Bess Shields. A son, Dell Shields, died on Christmas day, 1924, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Adele and her mother are living in Casper, Wyo. Mr. Shields had three brothers, all deceased. A half-sister lives in Los Angeles.

Mr. Shields was engaged in the poultry business for a number of years. He served as city treasurer a number of terms, county treasurer one term, and city collector one term, elected on the Republican ticket. He was serving as secretary of the Woodman of the world at the time of death, an office he held for 30 years continuously.

Mr. Shields was a member of the First Baptist church. He was one of the city's substantial residents, honest and honorable in all his dealings, one whose acquaintances were his friends.

No funeral arrangements have been made. The body was taken to McLaughlin's Chapel, but will later be returned to the home.

Pictures of the incoming and retiring president, John Rayl and Marjorie Claycomb, respectively, and John Metcalfe, editor of the Tiger Times and Clay Ellison, editor of the Archives, were on the front page of the issue. The paper has been published semi-monthly all this year. Following is a list of the staff members:

HOUSE BATTLE IS WAGED ON SIZE OF RELIEF BILL

Considered an Important Test on Sentiment In Economy Issue

ADDITIONS TO SOME OF APPROPRIATIONS

Picture Developing on Proposed Expenditures of Government

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—The house tentatively defeated today a proposal by Representative Boileau (P-Wis) to appropriate $3,600,000,000 for relief in 1938.

The standing vote was announced as 46 to 180.

An assertion that $1,000,000,000 would be ample to relieve next year's needy "if spent in the right way" began the final hour and a half debate that preceded the vote on the Boileau proposal.

WASHINGTON, May 21. — The house battle over the size of next year's relief fund developed today into a contest between administration forces and groups wanting to increase or decrease President Roosevelt's recommendation for $1,500,000,000.

Observers described the final vote, probably late in the afternoon, as an important test of sentiment on the economy issue.

Those pitted against the President's supporters offered three diverse proposals:

1. A $500,000,000 cut in the President's figure, which Rep. Woodrum (D-Va) declared would "take the racketeering out of relief."

2. A $3,000,000,000 relief fund, which Rep. Boileau (Prog-Wis) said would provide jobs for 3,000,000 and a 20 per cent increase in WPA pay.

3. A $2,200,000,000 "compromise," which Rep Maverick (D-Tex) said would prevent the lay-off of 600,000 men under the President's program.

The picture of next year's proposed government expenditures gradually was developing through action on supply bills.

Increase Interior Fund

Despite predictions of some members that it might incur a Presidential veto, the house members voted yesterday to increase the interior department appropriation $2,390,500 over the President's budget recommendation and $7,131,840 above the sum suggested by its own appropriations committee.

Before approving the $123,003,104 measure, the house doubled a suggested $7,241,500 item for aiding vocational education and tacked on $2,000,000 to the fund provided for continuing work on the Blue Ridge parkway in Virginia and North Carolina.

The senate joined the house in voting to cut $2,000 from the $12,000 salary of Robert Fechner, CCC director. Senator Clark (D-Mo) said the reduction in pay was not meant as a reflection on Fechner's ability.

Word that President Roosevelt had approved a $25,000,000 expenditure for "emergency and priority" flood control projects in the lower Ohio valley came from Chairman Whittington (D-Miss) of the house flood control committee.

The program would include spending $11,000,000 on these projects in the coming fiscal year, in addition to the $30,000,000 recommended as a flood-control starter by the budget bureau.

Later, when the house convened, Representative Cannon (D-Mo) acting chairman of the house appropriations committee, took the floor to plead for $1,500,000,000.

"The bill calls for $1,500,000,000, and it is an economy bill. It is the first step toward discontinuance of the emergency relief program. It is a compromise between two extremes—$2,000,000,000 on the one hand and $1,000,000,000 on the other."

Cannon said the relief program would entail a total expenditure of $2,214,000,000 this year.

"The President," he declared, "has said needs justify the continuance of the program on the same basis. But he says we must balance the budget."

Cannon said the President or house leaders "have never attempted to coerce the house or any member to vote for $1,500,000,000."

"But he has recommended that amount."

The Missourian contended that Republicans wanted to reduce the amount to "create hard times."

"They are looking ahead to the next election," he said.

He warned Democratic colleagues the people "at the next primary" would ask them if they stood with their President or the Republicans.

TO FURTHER PLANS TONIGHT FOR MEMORIAL DAY

A meeting of all patriotic organizations planning on cooperating with the Decoration Day Memorial services, will be held at the old post office building in the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion quarters, at 8 o'clock tonight.

Final arrangements will be made at this time.

NARCOTICS AGENT SEIZED IN RAIDS

By The Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., May 21.—Fellow "G-Men" seized Chris Hansen, 58-year-old narcotics agent in charge of the Nevada district, and held him on an open charge today following a series of night raids against drug traffic in Reno.

Joyce McAllister, attractive Santa Barbara, Calif., girl, was credited with brilliant detective work which led to the arrest of Hansen and eight others.

Of the others, Woo Sing, operator of the Public Club, was the only one booked. A. V. McAvoy, former employe of the internal revenue department, and six Chinese also were arrested.

Federal agents and Washoe county officers made three raids last night, but assertedly found narcotics only in possession of persons at the Public Club.

The raids were made after nearly $1,000 worth of narcotics had been purchased by operatives in nine transactions, federal authorities said.

They said the raid on the Public Club was made after Miss McAllister had made a $195 purchase at the club with marked money, found on Sing after the raid.

Miss McAllister was quoted as saying she was so shocked by the widespread traffic she saw during a visit to Reno five months ago she solicited the aid of Sheriff Ray Root of Washoe County. She was credited with gaining the confidence of peddlers and linking Hansen with Sing.

THREE ST. LOUISIANS INJURED IN CRASH

Three members of the legislative committee of the Missouri Pharmacists Association, all of St. Louis, were injured, two severely, about 10:30 o'clock this morning when the 1937 Buick sedan they were riding in crashed into the rear of a tractor drawn semi-trailer, five and a half miles west of Junction 65 on highway 40.

The three were John E. Sturgis, 3517 Lafayette, who received a pierced eye ball, and a probable fracture of the skull and other injuries to his body; O. J. Cloughtt, 66 Aberdeen Place, who received a fractured leg, and probable internal injuries; C. L. Leckey, 368 North Taylor, who received minor cuts and bruises about his head and body.

The injured were rushed to the Fitzgibbons hospital at Marshall.

According to State Highway Patrolman Paul E. Corl, who made an investigation, the three were en route to Kansas City to attend a meeting of the committee of which they were members, and were driving at a fast rate of speed. The accident occurred, the patrolman said, when the driver of the Buick started to go out and around the trailer on a hill, and as he did a car was going east and he was forced to turn back behind the trailer. The Buick was going at such a speed it was impossible to stop and avoid the accident.

ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW BEING HELD

The second annual flower show, sponsored by the Sedalia Garden Club, all circles, is being held today in the west display room of the Thompson Chevrolet Company's garage, Fourth street and Osage avenue.

The show this year is earlier than last year's, which was in the middle of June, and because the season has been a little backward, there are not quite as many varieties as there were before. The shortage in numbers, however, is made up in quality, and many beautiful blossoms are shown. Particularly prominent are the roses, iris, peonies, poppies, potted plants, perennials and annuals.

The flowers were all placed this morning and judged by three competent flower lovers, Mrs. Charles Schneitter, Warrensburg; Miss Alice Crome, Clinton, and Mrs. F. J. Chapel, Jefferson City.

The doors of the show were opened to the public at 1:30 this afternoon, and will be open until 9 p. m. The lovely flowers are artistically arranged, a quaint little tea garden "While Away a While," furnishes a place for rest and refreshments, and the whole show is most creditable to those who are responsible for it.

A musical program is continuous, appropriate numbers being furnished by a number of Sedalia musicians.

BILL BE OFFERED FOR CARE TO THE AGED AND RELIEF

Would Call For Expenditure of $44,825,000 In Biennium

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 21.—A bill calling for expenditure of $44,825,000 in Missouri during 1937-38 for care of the aged, relief of the destitute, and help for dependent children will be introduced in the house early next week by John D. Taylor, appropriations committee chairman.

Of the sum specified $27,500,000 would be from state and $17,825,000 from federal funds.

They would be divided as follows:

Old age assistance — $15,000,000 from state revenue and an additional $15,000,000 in matching federal funds.

Relief—$10,000,000 in state funds. No federal matching.

Aid to dependent children (a new field)—$1,500,000 from state and $1,500,000 from federal sources.

Administration — $1,000,000 from state and $825,00 from federal sources.

The measure carries a clause making all appropriations "under direct supervision and complete control" of the governor.

A house vote probably will be delayed until that body acts on the Casey "omnibus" social security measure, providing a centralized administrative setup for old age assistance, child welfare, aid to dependent children, and relief.

The old age assistance appropriation is six times the $2,500,000 in state funds provided two years ago, and would allow pensions of nearly $20 monthly to an estimated 70,000 persons now rated as eligible. A total of 56,000 already are on the rolls.

For direct relief the state appropriated $6,000,000 two years ago. The $4,000,000 increase this session was said to be due to withdrawal of federal participation in direct relief.

The state is for the first time entering the field of monthly grants to dependent children, with federal matching.

Sponsors of the bill asked $4,000,000 from state sources, but the amount was trimmed to $1,500,000 because the work is regarded as experimental.

BACK TO WORK AT STUDEBAKER PLANT

By The Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 21.—Employes of the Studebaker Corporation who are affiliated with the United Automobile Workers of America voted by acclamation today to return to work as soon as operations can be resumed in the various departments.

Approximately 160 factory workers were expected to return to their jobs this afternoon in the service parts department, and the rest of more than 6,000 who have been idle since Wednesday plan to return Monday.

The vote called for union acceptance of a proposed contract worked out during five weeks of negotiations. The contract does not call for a closed shop or the check-off system but recognizes Studebaker local No. 5 as the collective bargaining agent for all employes.

Russell J. Merrill, president of the local, denied the vote constituted a repudiation of so-called "wildcat" strikes which resulted in the plant shutdown.

CONVICTED FOUR MORE IN KANSAS CITY VOTE FRAUD

All Are Found Guilty on Both Counts of An Indictment

JURY OUT BUT AN HOUR AND HALF

Democratic Precinct Captain Among Quartet In Latest Trial

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, May 21.—All four defendants in Kansas City's seventh vote fraud conspiracy trial were convicted by a federal court jury today. The convictions brought to 36 the total for the series of trials.

The jury deliberated only about one and a half hours.

Those convicted were Robert Strohm, Democratic precinct captain; Gene Riley, Democratic judge; Mrs. Irene Ervin, Republican clerk, and Thomas Audley, Democratic inside challenger.

All were convicted on both counts of an indictment which charged conspiracy to defraud voters in the seventh precinct of the twelfth Kansas City ward. One charge involved the presidential election and the other the congressional vote.

George Arnold, Democratic judge indicted with the other four, pleaded guilty and testified for the government.

Judge Reyes said he would sentence Arnold and the four convicted persons at 9:30 a. m. next Friday. All were released on their original bonds, $2,000 for the men and $1,500 for the women.

Maximum sentences possibly under both counts are federal prison sentences of 20 years plus $10,000 fines. Judge Reeves may impose lighter sentences at his discretion, however.

The government's case was marked by testimony of several witnesses who said four "tough looking men," who "were not Americans" evicted Albert Filis, Republican challenger, from the polls.

Several other precinct officials testified for the government and all said votes were not counted.

Testimony also included charges that Strohm at one time announced the Republicans would be given 15 votes, and then announced he had received orders from "the boss" to allow them 37 votes.

The official count in the precinct showed each Democrat received 488 votes and each Republican candidate 37.

Three of the defendants, Riley, Audley and Mrs. Ervin, testified yesterday that they were under domination of Strohm at the polls. Mrs. Ervin and Audley both testified they were ill.

Judge Albert L. Reeves, whose instructions to the jury took up the morning session of court, announced that the eighth of the series of trials in which 32 persons already have been convicted would be delayed until Monday so as not to tie up a jury over the week end.

"You men were called here for service because in investigation disclosed that each of you had good judgment," Judge Reeves told the jurors. "Sometimes we refer to good judgment as everyday common sense."

BE NO RELIGIOUS RITES IN WEDDING

By The Associated Press.

MONTS, France, May 21.—There will be no religious ceremony to unite the Duke of Windsor and Wallis Warfield, a spokesman announced tonight.

Herman L. Rogers made the announcement. He refused to say why the plans for a religious service, to follow the civil service on June 3, had been abandoned.

It was known, however, that the Duke and his fiancee had been trying without much success to find an Anglican pastor who would marry them in the face of the church's stand against remarriage of divorced persons and its constant opposition to the Edward-Warfield union.

Hugh L. Thomas, British embassy counsellor at Paris, was at the Chateau De Cande with Windsor and Mrs. Warfield today, presumably on the question of a religious service. But Rogers would not say whether Thomas' presence had anything to do with the decision not to have such a service.

WPA IS RELEASING FARMERS TO PUT IN THEIR CROPS

Workers on Some of The Projects Be Assigned To Other Ones

About eighty per cent of the relief clients eligible for work on WPA projects were employed last summer and the indications are, Administrator Frank Monroe said Thursday, that with the number of voluntary separations from the program, the percentage of men out of work to be employed this summer will be greater.

Instructions from headquarters, he said are that the specially certified drought farmers shall be released from the work rolls in order for them to return to their farm operations as fast as is possible and not damage the integrity of the projects. The voluntary separations, that is farmers voluntarily returning to their farm work from WPA projects, in the district are from thirty to forty a day.

"I do not think" said Mr. Monroe," that a cut of any size will have to be made at all.

No new assignment of WPA workers can be made to take the place of the drought farmers as they leave the program. Under the present plans said Mr. Monroe, it looks like few if any projects will have to be closed to meet the reduction in force, as those working on projects will on their completion, be transferred to other projects being worked.

Among the new projects is one to rebuild the large running horse barn on the east side of the race track at the Missouri State Fair grounds, to provide suitable accommodations for the running horses.

BID OF $6,450 ON ASSETS OF BANK

The assets of the Sedalia National Bank, totaling approximately $40,000, were offered for sale to the highest bidder at 10 o'clock this morning and were bid in by Frank W. Beiser of Craig, Colo., for $6450. The sale is subject to the approval of the Comptroller of the Currency and the Court of Competent Jurisdiction.

The sale was conducted by O. F. Emerson, assistant receiver for the defunct bank, in the Union Savings Bank building, Main and Ohio, and was marked by spirited bidding. There were bidders present from Illinois, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas and Missouri.

Mr. Beiser recently purchased the assets of the First National Bank of Windsor.

Included in the property are notes, stock assessments and real estate. Among the real estate properties are 127 acres in the Imperial Valley, Calif., 340 acres in Dimmitt County, Texas, 80 acres in Maries County, Mo., and some city lots in Sedalia.

The Sedalia National Bank closed February 15, 1932.

The assets of the Citizens National Bank, which closed in October, 1931, will be sold also at public auction, Friday morning, May 28th at 10 o'clock.

By The Associated Press.

WARRENSBURG, Mo., May 21. Dr. E. L. Hendricks resigned today as president of the Central Missouri State Teachers College here and the board of regents elected him president-emeritus, effective September 1.

The regents appointed a committee, with Dr. Hendricks as advisor, to select a successor.

Dr. Hendricks came to the college as head of the history department in 1910. He became president after a fire which destroyed several campus buildings in 1915, and under his leadership the college was rebuilt.

AFFILIATE OF CIO WINS ELECTION ON BARGAINING

Accorded Right To Represent Workers In J. and L. Steel Plants

RESULT ACCEPTED IN GOOD SPIRIT

Biggest Election of Kind Ever Conducted Under Federal Supervision

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, May 21.—A CIO affiliate won the exclusive right to represent the 27,000 workers of Jones and Laughlin Steel Company as the last ballot in an historic industrial election was counted in the quiet of a postoffice room at dawn today.

The organizing committee immediately presented a collective bargaining contract to the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation.

The contract was received by Chairman H. E. Lewis of the corporation at a twenty minute conference with Chairman Phillip Murray of the steel union, spearhead of John L. Lewis' industrial unionization drive.

Emerging from the conference room, Murray said:

"The meeting was very amiable. Mr. Lewis accepted the result of the election in good spirit."

The two leaders will meet again tomorrow when the contract possibly may be signed. It is expected to be considered first by counsel for the corporation.

More than 24,000 of Jones & Laughlin mills' 27,000 employes voted yesterday by a two and one half to one margin in favor of having the union represent them exclusively in bargaining with the management. The result was announced at dawn today by the national labor board after the last ballot had been counted in the quiet of a postoffice room.

It was an historic election because it was the biggest ever conducted under the federal government's supervision. It was a decision of momentous significance to the forces of John L. Lewis, whose Committee for Industrial Organization already was reaching out toward other steel companies where yet it has been unrecognized.

At 6:38 a. m. (eastern standard time), Ernest C. Dunbar, regional director of the national labor relations board, emerged from the counting place with a slip of paper giving these figures:

Total ballots 24,412; for the steel workers organizing committee—the CIO unit involved—17,028; not in favor of the SWOC 7,207; blank ballost 31; void ballots 56; challenged votes 90.

The men voted in two plants, the larger at Aliquippa, 18 miles down the Ohio river from Pittsburgh, the other at the south side mills in the city proper.

Figures issued by Joseph Timko, sub-regional director for the SWOC, before the tabluation had been completed indicated under partial returns that in Aliquippa the CIO vote was about two to one, or less against about three to one in the

MUSSOLINI'S OBJECTIVE

The Italian prime minister marches forward with his hopes and purposes. By agreements with Germany he is planning to detach Yugoslavia and Rumania from the Little Entente and to block an understanding between Vienna and Prague, says Vera Micheles Dean in Foreign Policy Bulletin.

In this project he has been "seconded by Poland which, while still on the fence, fears German-Soviet reapproachment and is unfriendly to Czechoslovakia. Both German and Italian influences have been at work in Hungary which, although distrustful of Nazi designs in eastern Europe, is not yet ready to accept Chancellor Schuschnigg's proposal for closed collaboration between the Danubian countries—Austria, Hungary and the three Little Entente states.

"Neither Rumania nor Yugoslovia—both of which have been subjected to strong pressure from France—has as yet displayed any eagerness to break up the Little Entente. The dominant desire of each small country is not to become a cog in alliances organized by the great powers, but to retain its freedom to strike a bargain with whatever combination can best serve its interests."

Mussolini would upset the condition in the Balkans in order to promote his own ends. His suppresison of news of the British coronation in the Italian press was indirectly caused by Britain's opposition to Italy's aspirations in the Mediteranean sea. The Anglo-Italian tension continues because Mussoiini is striving to go forward with his program which includes a Fascist victory in Spain.

Meantime, the sort of politics the Italian and German governments are playing is keeping Europe nervous, for there are perils wrought by those who endanger the peace. If Mussolini should isolate Czechoslovakia, he would disturb political alignments in that part of Europe. So far he has been balked, but he is keeping at it. There is some fear that he will overcome resistance.

Mussolini at this time is the source of peril to the peace of Europe. He has taken advantage of conditions to accomplish what he has accomplished, the acquisition of Ethiopia in the first place. He appears to be confident that Italy's prospects for bettering its conditions are promoted by his methods and propaganda. Italy is poverty stricken, but Mussolini distracts Italian attention from its own affairs. It is a form of statesmanship which is baneful to the world at large.

A GOLD RUSH

In the good old days before sit-down strikes, airplane and dirigible disasters and before 40,000 people were killed every year by automobiles, gold rushes were not so uncommon as they are today. Adventure lurked in the Klondike and in our own west. Tent and shanty cities sprang up over night, on news of a gold strike, and flopped almost as rapidly when it was discovered that the find had been exaggerated.

Even yet, however, there is an occasional gold rush, comments the Courier-Post of Hannibal, and one has just occurred in Alaska. A dispatch from Bethel, Alaska, says the Goodnews Bay gold strike developed into an oldtime Alaskan stampede with arrival of the first boat of the season.

Two hundred to 300 prospectors flocked over the sands of Kuskiwim bay, a remote area of southwestern Alaska, where recent gold, platinum and palladium strikes were reported.

In three days fifty airplane flights were made, bringing prospectors from Anchorage. A roaring "tent city" sprang up on the sand, and sourdoughs said the beach was a miniature of the early days of Nome, when Alaska's sands produced tons of gold.

Prices were as "sky high" as in the heyday of the Klondike when prospectors paid a double eagle ($20) for a place in line at the postoffice.

Platinum strikes have been made on a narrow strip of beach at Goodnews. Gold in small quantities was found on the shores of the Eek river ant Togiak bay. Several mining companies have operated extensively in the Goodnews area for years.

Gold never loses its appeal as this latest rush indicates.

LEADS IN SAVING TREES

From the Houston Post.

The recognized leader of forest conservation work in the United States is Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry association.

The story of Mr. Pack's unselfish career is a bright chapter in American history.

In an age of ruthless waste of natural resources, when the woodsman's ax and the lumberman's screeching saw slashed and ripped their way through the country's forests, when little thought was devoted to the future, he fought vigorously against selfishness and waste.

Frequently he fought virtually alone, but he continued his work in the schools, through publications which he broadcast throughout the land and by sponsoring practical demonstrations of the economic value of intelligent reforestation activities.

Mr. Pack marks the date of his twenty-fifth anniversary in forestry work by announcing a new edition of his famous "Forestry Primed," which will be published in the fall, raising the distribution of this work to the forty-fifth thousand. In other words he has given 4,400,000 copies of the booklet to schools, colleges and CCC camps of the nation.

For his slogan over the period of a quarter century, he has said, "If the nation saves the trees, the trees will save the nation."

The soundness of this statement has been very graphically proved by the disastrous duststorms and floods which have ravaged the country in the last few years and which experts say are partially, at least, attributable to destruction of forest areas.

Perhaps the greatest tribute that can be paid Mr. Pack at this time is to point out that this pioneering ideas on forest conservation, voiced twenty-five years ago and ignored, have been declared by law to be the policy of the national government. The CCC and the government's vast program of reforestation are monuments to his energy and vision.

Significant also is the fact that the private lumber industry has concluded that its survival is dependent upon inteligent, systematic reforestation activities. Some of the nation's leading conservationists today are found in the lumber industry.

Ideas like seedling trees grow slowly, but once they take root they are capable of withstanding the severest storms. The idea of forest conservation, nursed and sponsored by Mr. Pack for twenty-five years, has won nation-wide acceptance. Forestry has become of vital concern to the government and the people.

By EDGAR WALLACE and ROBERT CURTIS

READ THIS FIRST:

Charles Stuckey, senior member of a London law firm, with a questionable reputation, is informed by cable from America that Miss Jacqueline Smith, daughter of one of his few respectable clients, now on the continent with her mother, has inherited $1,500,000 from an American uncle. Colonel Alec Lutman, who has a hold over Stuckey, learns of the inheritance and proposes a scheme to which Stuckey reluctantly agrees. The plan calls for Jim Asson, an ex-convict, to marry Jacqueline, having her assign her property—before Stuckey informs her of the inheritance—to her new husband. Lutman plans to take three-fifths of the inheritance, Stuckey and Asson each one-fifth. Lutman and Asson go to Cobenzil to cultivate Jacqueline and her mother, stopping at the same hotel where Mrs. Smith finds herself in dire financial straits.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

"Why on earth can't we cut it all out, mother?"

CHAPTER 7

"I HAVE never, Jacqueline, failed to pay my hotel bill," Mrs. Smith told her daughter.

"Oh, no; I don't say you have," the girl admitted. "It's rather wonderful, the way you always manage to find the money somehow. But there was that fuss at Munich when the bank wouldn't meet your check, and—oh, you know the sort of thing I mean. All this wandering about Europe, pinching and scraping, living in third-rate hotels, hurrying past the office in case we're asked to pay our bill, feeling that the waiters and the chambermaids and the porters all know we haven't paid—it's all so humiliating."

"You've such a sensitive nature, Jacqueline. I have never felt in the least humiliated. You just imagine all this nonsense."

"It isn't nonsense, mother. I know you've tried to keep it all from me, and I've said nothing because—well, you tried so hard not to let me know and it seemed kindest to pretend I didn't see what was going on. I realized that you were doing it for my sake, and I didn't want to seem ungrateful. But today, when I saw a dirty little foreign hotelkeeper insulting you on the terrace . . ."

"My dear, he wasn't insulting me."

"Well, it looked like it to me."

"No! he was only asking me—quite politely—when he might expect payment, and I told him—just as politely—that he would be paid in due course, but not in full view of the whole of Cobenzil. He was quite satisfied. And he didn't seem dirty, dear. Only his finger nails."

"It was hateful. He shook his fist at you. To have to put up with that sort of thing from a dirty little foreigner. . . ."

"And if he was just a little dirty, Jacqueline, you couldn't really blame him. The bath water is never really hot."

The girl seated herself in the chair beside her mother's.

"I'm serious about this, mother," she said, "and it's no use trying to put me off. The sort of life we've been leading—its humiliating, for both of us. If you don't feel humiliated, I do. All this grubbing along in cheap hotels, keeping up appearances, pretending we're something we aren't, and aren't ever likely to be—it's all rather contemptible."

Mrs. Smith sighed.

"I'm sure I've always done my best for you. . . ."

"Oh, yes, I know. But if you're doing it for me, mother, the sooner you stop the better. I don't want you to do it. I hate your doing it."

"And if your uncle Alan Redfern weren't a miserly skinflint, we shouldn't have to live in cheap hotels. If you want to do something really useful, Jacqueline, persuade your uncle that a man who is supposed to be a millionaire and allows his only sister a miserable fifteen hundred a year is a miserly skinflint. I used to write regularly and tell him so, and the only time he answered he sent me an unstamped letter to say that if I ever wrote again he would stop the allowance. And he certainly wouldn't increase it, he said, because if he did I should only spend it." She sighed again. "Alan never was very intelligent, and living in America doesn't seem to have improved him. But where's Jim Asson? I thought you were to play tennis with him this afternoon?"

Jacqueline shook her head.

"I haven't seen him since lunch."

"Nice of him, I thought, to invite us to lunch with him."

"Yes, it knocked a bit off our bill, I suppose."

Mrs. Smith made no reply to that, except that she gave her daughter just such a disapproving look as she had bestowed on the Danube. And her daughter seemed no more impressed by it than the river had been.

"Why on earth can't we cut it all out, mother?" she said. "You've $1,500 a year from Uncle Alan, and that's plenty to live on quite comfortably in England."

"Comfortably—in England?" Mrs. Smith shook her head. "Even $20,000 a year, Jacqueline, couldn't make an English winter comfortable."

"We could have a little flat somewhere," continued the girl. "Not in Park Lane, perhaps, but somewhere a little way out—like Ealing. . . ."

"My dear Jacqueline! Ealing! Look at me, my dear, and tell me if you can really picture me living in a little flat in Ealing."

"Oh well, somewhere, anyway. And I could help. I could get a job and earn enough to keep myself."

Her mother smiled.

"You would have to eat very little, Jacqueline, and you have naturally quite a healthy appetite. And what sort of a job do you imagine you could get?"

"I suppose I could get a job as a typist."

Her mother shook her head.

"What all girls think who can't do anything else," she said. "No, my dear, typists have to know how to typewrite—unless they're quite extraordinarily pretty. And you're not that. You're pretty, of course, but the competition for that sort of job is very keen, I believe. And I'm sure you'd hate being in an office—catching the same omnibus at half-past 8 every morning and lunching on a Cambridge sausage."

"I couldn't hate it more than I hate being hawked round the cheap hotels of Europe and lunching on tick, mother."

Mrs. Smith chose not to pursue that line of conversation.

"Besides, Jacqueline," she said, "a typist in a London office has nothing like the chances you have. You would never meet a man like Jim Asson, for instance. Jim Asson is a very wealthy young man."

The girl glanced at her sharply.

"Is he?"

Her mother nodded.

"Colonel Lutman told me. He's Jim's trustee or something of the sort, and he was telling me only yesterday that it's quite a heavy responsibility because Jim is a very wealthy young man indeed."

"Then I wonder he stays in a hotel like this."

Mrs. Smith smiled.

"I dare say he has his reasons, Jacqueline. The Colonel told me that this isn't at all the type of hotel Jim usually stays at—I was telling him about the bath water—and if they'd had any idea what sort of place it was they would never have come here."

"I dare say Colonel Lutman has never won prizes for tact, mother."

"He wanted to leave at once," added Mrs. Smith, "but Jim wouldn't hear of it. I think Colonel Lutman has a shrewd idea why, and doesn't in the least disapprove. So long as Jim chooses a lady, he said, he could marry anyone he liked as far as he was concerned, and money fortunately wouldn't enter into the question at all."

"Wouldn't it?" Jacqueline rose. "Colonel Lutman has a lot of learn yet, by the sound of it, mother. I should start teaching him if I were you."

"He was rather surprised, I fancy," added Mrs. Smith, "to find people like ourselves staying in a hotel like this, but of course I put that right. I told him that we came here because we'd been told it was quite one of the best hotels in Cobenzil, and were very upset when we discovered what it was really like. But as I had paid for a month in advance, I said, we were seeing the month through here, and then, of course, we should be making a change."

Jacqueline tossed away her cigaret.

"Yes, a month's about our usual limit," she said. "If only you'd chuck the whole wretched business. But I suppose it's no use talking."

Her mother smiled.

"About Ealing, dear?" She shook her head. "No use at all, Jacqueline. Why don't you go and play tennis with Jim?"

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

WASHINGTON—If the Senate continues with its present tortoise tactics the leaves will be withered and sere on Capitol Plaza before the world's greatest deliberative body adjourns.

Here is a typical subject now consuming the time of the Senate.

One Miguel Paula, citizen of the Netherlands, met his death in a U. S. Marine Hospital in New Orleans when an assistant surgeon made the mistake of injecting him with 20 per cent cocaine when he meant to use 2 per cent novocaine.

A board of medical officers attributed the mistake "to a failure on the part of the nurse on duty to correctly read the label on the flask containing cocaine solution."

This happened six years ago. For six years the case gathered dust in a pigeon-hole of the Foreign Relations Committee. Just the other day, the Committee got around to reporting the claim to the Senate, and the Senate, after further deliberation, decided to pay the claim of Miguel Paula, deceased seaman.

Following this, the Senate passed still another claim, on behalf of one Henry Borday, Frenchman, who had been assaulted by a pair of drunken U. S. Marines at his place of business in Port au Prince, Haiti. The assault occurred 20 years ago.

While waiting for the Supreme Court bill, the Senate is catching up with its business.

Farmer Van Devanter

When Justice Willis Van Devanter retires from the Supreme Court on June 2 after 27 years of service, he will fulfill a life-long desire to devote all his time to farming.

For Dan Veventer is essentially a man of the soil. He has in him the "blut und brot" of the earth. He is a great student of agricultural history. He loves to talk farming. In the summer on his farm in Ellicott City, Maryland, he goes to bed almost with the chickens, gets up with them.

He is proud that his ancestors from Holland came from the soil, and that one of his sons manages his farm. Van Devanter raises a general assortment of crops, though recently he has been specializing on corn and Hampshire hogs, of which he has a fine, fullblooded stock.

On his farm, Van Devanter wears a khaki shirt, high boots and old plug hat, and spends much of his time riding or walking about his 750 acres. No matter what he wears, however, the 78-year-old Justice never loses the dignified bearing which always stamped him while a Justice of the Supreme Court.

Democratic

Arriving in Washington to take the oath of office, Tennessee's new junior Senator George L. Berry was met at the depot by a group of newsmen.

"How's it feel to be a Senator?" one of them asked.

"This is all new to me," beamed Berry, "just forget the 'Senator.' Call me George, boys, call me George."

Prize Boondoggling

Energetic contender for the next gubernatorial nomination in Oklahoma is W. S. Key, WPAdministrator and the builder of new and palatial armories all over the State.

Key, a National Guard officer, believes in armories, not schoolhouses, and has constructed the record-breaking number of 56.

However, one building which he built under the none too discerning eyes of Harry Hopkins may nip his ambition to become Oklahoma's next Governor.

That building is the Brass Hats club, reputed to be the largest "rest room" in the world. Situated in an Oklahoma City park, it is a rest house, club building, restaurant, and stable for National Guard officers.

"It will not be open to the public nor to non-commissioned men," says Adjutant General Charles F. Barrett of the Oklahoma National Guard. "This is a club house for officers only, to hold meetings and social functions."

The building has a large ballroom, ladies' lounge, several private dining-rooms, bedrooms, dinettes, and pine-paneled smoking-rooms. As a work-relief project it is a prize exhibit of boondoggling.

Radio Phonetics

Illustrating the phoney trafficking in radio wave-lengths sometimes put across on the Federal Communications Commission is the case of Richard M. Casto, who applied for a radio license at Johnson City, Tenn.

When Casto was examined by the FCC, the extraordinary fact developed that never in his life had he made more than $1,000 a year (the maximum allowed without filing an income tax return) and yet he had $25,000 in the bank. He is now 30 years old.

It developed that in 1936 his total income was only $20. So a sub-committee of the FCC finally concluded that "he was a subterfuge or dummy applicant for another person" in order "to hinder and delay other applicants from operating" at Johnson City.

Applications for licenses made simultaneously with an application by another party is a favorite trick for the purpose of stalling off a competitor.

Merry-Go-Round

From Miami last week inventor John Rust took plane for Buenos Aires, where he will put into operation on Argentina's vast cotton fields one of the cotton-picking machines he and Brother Mack invented. Meanwhile, Brother Mack is in Russia on a similar errand.....Joe Sheehan, whom Joe Kennedy brought into the SEC in 1934 and into the Maritime Commission in 1937, was a baseball companion of Kennedy's in East Boston. Kennedy played first base, Sheehan second base.....Tennessee's new Senator, George L. Berry, owns the largest farm in the Southeast. Size 30,000 acres.....Among other things, Argentina shipped to the United States in March 845 casks of salted sausage casings and 39 boxes of dried sausage casings.

DR. CLENDENING EXPOUNDS FIRST AID IN ACCIDENTS

Yesterday we supposed that you were out camping, and during a walk in the woods you came across a member of your party prostrate on the ground, mentally so incoherent that he could not tell you what had happened to him. We agreed that the first thing to do would be to get an idea of his general condition by examining five signs which you can remember by checking them off on your fingers and thumb—consciousness, color, breathing, pulse and temperature.

Next you would look locally for something to account for the condition—injury to the head—he may have fallen down and hit his head on a stone, producing concussion; broken arm or leg; a cut with hemorrhage concealed by the sleeve or leg of the trousers; evidence of sunstroke; if he found such an unfortunate in a city street, the emergency doctor would smell his breath for alcohol, but on a respectable camping party in the woods, we will assume that is unnecessary.

A concussion is a stunning jar to the brain. Think of what would happen if you had a coconut filled with fluid, in which floated a soft mass which nearly filled the inside of the coconut. That is the anatomical condition of the brain and skull. If you dropped the coconut to the ground, the jar would cause the fluid to accumulate on the under side and force the floating mass up against the hard walls of the shell, on the opposite side to that on which the coconut hit the ground. This is exactly what happens in concussion, and it may tear the brain or simply knock all function out of it for a while.

I saw Dizzy Dean beaned by a baseball in the world series a year or two ago. The ball, thrown with terrific force, hit him in the front of the head and he went down like a felled ox. He had to be carried from the field, and I thought from where I sat that he never would play again. But he was in there pitching the next day just the same which shows that it always is worth while to treat these cases no matter how serious they may look.

Treating Concussion

The treating of simple concussion is the same as the treatment of fainting. Put the patient in a comfortable position with the head low; loosen tight parts of the clothing, such as neckband and belt; sprinkle some cool water in the face (by flipping water from the ends of your dripping fingers rather than throwing it from a basin); keep the patient covered up and warm in order to prevent as much shock as possible, and keep him quiet. It is best not to try to move him, no matter what the injury, unless he recovers consciousness and wants to be helped. Even then it is probably better to go and get assistance.

If your examination reveals a hemorrhage, every Boy Scout knows what to do. If the blood is coming out in spurts, tie a tourniquet (a tight band of constriction) between the site of the hemorrhage and the heart. If the blood is from a vein—if it is welling out, simply make pressure over the site of the hemorrhage. Pressure is a good thing to do under any circumstances. Arteries are seldom cut except by sharp tools—hatchet, knife, ax.

If you have to carry a comrade to camp by yourself, you can use either the transfer lift or the fireman's lift. For the transfer, put one arm under the knees, the other under the neck and farther arm. Then clasp your two hands together. It is like holding a baby—a big limp baby, but the principle is the same. You cannot carry anyone far this way.

The fireman's lift hangs the patient over your shoulder, head down your back. Turn the patient on his face, straddle him facing his head. Lift him to his knees and then, your arms under his abdomen, raise to his feet. Take his left wrist with your left hand and draw his left arm around your neck. Move to his left side and by letting his left hand go and putting his right arm around your neck, you have him hanging on your shoulder face down. Put your right arm through his legs and grasp his left hand with it.

SHIRLEY'S SEVEREST CRITIC IS MOTHER

By The Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Shirley Temple's best friend—and severest critic—is her mother.

Mrs. George ("Mummy") Temple 39, is paid more than $500 a week to care for her daughter on and off the set. Officials of 20th Century-Fox say she is worth every penny.

Shirley was 8 years old last month. She became an actress in 1933, a star in 1934 and the industry's biggest box-office attraction in 1935. She has no idea of her fortune, climbing upward toward the milion dollar mark.

The No. 1 rule on a Temple set is—no one makes a fuss over Shirley. Mrs. Temple has never allowed her the luxury of a tantrum.

The most devoted Temple admirers are her veteran camera crew. A director of a Temple picture invariably falls in love with her.

During a picture, she is at the studio from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Her stand-in, Mary Lou Isleib, nine months older, is her playmate. Shirley's favorite doll is "Jimmy," a battered relic of her babyhood.

Her entourage includes her school teacher, her chauffeur-bodyguard, her wardrobe attendant, and Ching-Ching her pet Pekinese.

"ROUGH RIDER" BORN IN SEDALIA DIES

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 21.—(AP)—Military funeral services for Sgt. James T. Greenly, 78, of Teddy Roosevelt's "Rough Riders," will be held there at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Greenly died at a nursing home here yesterday afternoon.

He was born in Sedalia and worked as a farmer and blacksmith there before joining the army.

The Original Evil!

The surgeon, the lawyer and the politician were debating the value of their respective callings to the human race.

"You fellows make me tired," said the surgeon. "It was a surgical operation that gave woman to the world. Where would the human race have been without that?"

"All very well," said the lawyer, "but we brought the world into order out of chaos."

The politician swallowed hard for a moment, but his eye lit up and he said triumphantly:

"And where do you suppose chaos came from?"

HEAR ELKS GRAND EXALTED RULER

"Modern Elkdom is built upon two fundamentals, first we as Elks believe there is no room nor need in the United States for communism, fascism, or nazi-ism, and second we believe that what we have was not handed to us on a silver platter, but built out of courage and the ability to fight," Grand Exalted Ruler David Sholtz said in his address to more than 300 persons attending a banquet at the Hotl Kansas Citian in his honor last Thursday night.

Continuing he said, "It is the responsibility of the Elks to rekindle in Americans as full realization of the privileges they, as Americans, enjoy."

Mr. Sholtz told of work of the organization and assistance rendered to the unfortunate in the flooded districts of the Ohio valley, he told of contributions sent to those in need in that section of the country, he reviewed the work of the Elks during the World War and of the help they rendered in supporting organizations which carried on work on the other side. Mr. Sholtz throughout his entire address stressed on "What the Elks Means to the United States, it being a purely 100% American organization."

In conclusion Mr. Sholtz said, "This organization is made up of 500,000 American gentlemen who unselfishly support the ideals of Americanism and not the "'ism's" of foreign countries.

Attending the meeting from Sedalia were Exalted Ruler Henry C. Salveter, Past Exalted Rulers Dr. M. E. Gouge and Jack L. Jolly and D. Kelly Scruton and Dr. Bennett, of Marshall, the latter a member of the lodge here.

TOGETHER AGAIN

Barbara Stanwyck and Joel McCrea, the romantic pair of many previous hit films, head the cast of "Internes Can't Take Money," the powerful drama of a young doctor's devotion to the sanctity of a student oath, which opens a two day run today at the Liberty Theatre.

MODERN NOAH'S ARK

When the big yellow and blue trucks have been hauled on to the grounds at Liberty Park and the strange, odd and peculiar animals have been roused from their slumber and brought into the big tents, they are as fresh as though they had spent the night in their stables miles and miles away.

According to Tex Thomas, head cowboy with the Modern Noah's Ark, coming to Sedalia for Sunday and Monday all the animals in the show do not sleep alike. The baby elephant sometimes spreads herself on her stomach and sleeps with front and back legs spread out in front and behind; the buffalo just lays down and sleeps as though there was no one within a thousand miles of him; the sacred cattle and the small cows, sleep like all cattle do; and the mules and ponies lie flat down on their sides. "Thor" the trained St. Bernard dog sleeps with his companion "Petty," the midget mule; and "Lone Star", the largest cow in all the world weighing over 3,000 pounds, and standing 9 feet in height, occupies her private sleeping truck with little "Paint," a small undersized bull weighing thirty-five pounds.

In addition to this collection of extraordinary animals, there will be shown an up-to-date Marine Exhibit containing all the strange fish of the Sea—Baby Whales, Harpoon Guns, Ropes and Anchors, Hammerheads, Swordfish, and many other specimens. Captain Mike Dolan and his crew from the whaling Ship "Lansing" are in charge of this department, and it will be free while here, to the general public. There will be a small charge to the annual tent to defray the heavy expenses incurred in bringing this extraordinary educational exhibit here. It will be open from noon 'till midnight daily.

'RED' JACKSON DIES ON GALLOWS AT GALENA TODAY

Slayer of Pearl Bozarth Speaks Briefly Asking Forgiveness

By The Associated Press.

GALENA, Mo., May 21.—In a small stockade packed with 500 townspeople and peace officers, Roscoe "Red" Jackson, 36, was hanged here at 6 a. m. today for the murder in 1934 of Pearl Bozarth, well-to-do poultry and feed man of Evansville, Ind.

The condemned man walked calmly to the gallows. He spoke briefly asking forgiveness for his deed after reciting a litany with a Catholic priest. He spoke unflinchingly, but in a low voice.

As the black hood was adjusted over his head "Red" spoke his last words:

"Well, good luck to you all."

The trap was sprung by Isaah H. Coin at 6:04 and he was pronounced dead at 6:14.

About halw the persons jammed in the high-walled enclosure turned their heads as the tall, black-hooded body plummeted through the trap. Others strained forward eagerly. There were a dozen women in the crowd.

Outside the stockade other hundreds pressed close to the fence, striving to peer through cracks between the rough-hewn oak planks. The crowd covered the whole courthouse lawn.

Inside no one fainted. An old man standing under a tree outside the enclosure swooned away when he heard the trap fall. He was John Hampsten of Jenkins, Mo. In one corner of the stockade on a raised platform, a newsreel camera ground away. Protographers snapped pictures from the platform beside the gallows, from courthouse windows and from the stockade wall.

On that same platform beside the gallows stood Howard Bozarth of Salisbury, Mo., son of the man for whose murder Jacksn forfeited his life. Bozarth watched the execution intently; said nothing.

While Jackson recited the litany he looked at the crowd beneath him, but mostly his gaze was over their heads. His manacled hands were still but those of Father Michael Ahern trembled as he read from his little black book.

Speaks to Crowd

Sheriff Coin asked the condemned man if he "had anything to say." The sheriff opened a small door beside the scaffold that looked out on the crowd outside. Jackson stepped to the opening. His words were low and rapid. He did not grope for courage.

"Now folks," he began, "I realize this whole affair is centered on me. The reproach of the whole community is on me but I am without ingratitude.

"To ask anyone to forgive me is too much. Death itself is not so bad but the record a person leaves behind him may be. To die accidentally is easy, but when you come to it gradually it is hard.

"If you feel I am paying my debt like a man, I am glad."

He repeated himself often, particularly the words "I realize" and "I feel this whole public disturbance is centered on me" and "I'm sorry."

After Sheriff Coin sprung the trap he walked quickly away. Someone took his arm and led him, shaking, down the gallows steps.

The crowd moved out in an orderly fashion but long after Jackson's body was taken away in the black hearse, persons milled around the square. Children, forbidden admission to the execution, entered the enclosure to gaze in awe at the scaffold.

Only the part of the rope which was tied to the plank above the trap remained; the rest had been cut down and sliced into small pieces by souvenir hunters.

Jackson's body was taken to Howard's Ridge, Mo., by his father, Andrew Jackson. The elder Jackson did not see his son's execution. He waited in the sheriff's office to take his son's body away. Surviving are his parents, an estranged wife and four children, all of Paul's Valley, Okla.

Jackson was hanged for killing Bozarth and taking his money, and automobile after the middle-aged Evansville man offered him a ride near Brown's Branch, in Taney county. He was tried and convicted here on a change of venue.

Negro Hanged for Killing

KANSAS CITY, May 21.—Dudley (Hardface) Barr, 39-year-old Negro who shared his last meal of fried chicken, lemon pie and ice cream with another Negro awaiting execution, was hanged here early today for the slaying of Walter Milton, Negro, in 1932.

One of his last requests was for the score of the New York Giants-St. Louis Cardinal baseball game yesterday. Informed the Giants won, he grinned broadly.

SOCIETY AND CLUBS

Mothers Club

The Mothers Club of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, held its regular monthly meeting with Mrs. B. P. Robinson, 1411 West Fourth street, with Mrs. Roy Gerster assisting.

The members were all very happy to have Mrs. Robert Rapp, president, out again, after she has been ill and confined to her home for some time.

Mrs. Rapp presided over the business session at which time a very interesting report was given by Mrs. English on the Mother-Daughter Banquet which was held at the church recently and which program and decorations were sponsored by the club. Special mention was made of the tableau, "The Most Beautiful Thing in the World," that was read by Miss Edyth Couey while her mother, Mrs. E. W. Couey sat in a beautifully improvised flower garden. The remainder of the program was made up of toasts and musical numbers appropriate for the occasion.

The banquet tables were lovely with the color scheme of lavender and silver being carried out. Individual favors at each place were miniature flower pots of silver with small waxed lavender flowers in each.

There were one hundred mothers and daughters who attended the occasion. Mrs. Kahrs also gave a report about the plates of homemade candy that were taken to the ladies at the county home and told how they enjoyed it.

After the business session Mrs. J. C. English gave a most interesting paper on "The Influence of the Home on the Growth of the Child."

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to a large group of mothers and children.

MINERS SITDOWN IN SHARE-WORK DEMAND MADE

Five Hundred Voluntarily Entomb Selves at Gillespie, Illonois

By The Associated Press.

GILLESPIE, Ill., May 21.—Voluntarily entombed 360 feet below the earth's surface, approximately 500 miners settled down to an underground existence today after a jolly, near-sleepless night inaugurating a sit-down strike in the Superior Coal Company's No. 4 mine at Wilsonville.

The strike was called late yesterday to support demands for a share-the-work plan with 300 employes of the company made idle last week by the closing of another pit for repairs.

Laughing and singing the men underground carried their carefree demonstration into the early morning hours. Seventy of the older men, those between 65 and 70 years of age, were sent to the surface by the pit committee to spare them the hardships of the self-imposed entombment.

The others—hardy young men of 26 and gray haired veterans of the pits twice their age and more—were determined, said John Fisher, president of local No 1, of the Progressive Miners of America, "to stick it out to the last."

Crowd Was Orderly

As rapidly as news of the underground sit-down spread, crowds gathered at the mine tipple. Wives of the strikers brought their children, idle miners and their families flocked to the shaft. Hundreds of curious came to look on. There was no demonstration and the crowd, estimated at 2,500, remained orderly as is dispersed late last night, an official of the mine who did not wish to be quoted said.

Early today, less than 50 persons were reported at the surface of the shaft.

Food, clothing, reading material and playing cards were lowered to the men soon after they refused to leave the pits. Fisher said there was enough food "to last us quite a while." Mrs. Fisher, who remained at home to assist in arrangements to make the strikers comfortable, said "three truck loads of food have been sent down."

Fisher said the idle miners had promised they would supply food while the strike was in progress

Fred S. Pfahlen of Chicago, president of the Superior Coal Company, was reported en route here early today. Mine officials said no statement concerning the strike would be made until his arrival.

Fisher, talking by telephone from the 360-foot level, declared if the strike is not settled by next week "500 more men probably will be affected."

The strike, Fisher said, was agreed upon "simultaneously" after negotiations to institute a stagger system of work for the idle men had failed. The union's contract with the company, which expired March 31 but was extended during negotiations with the operator's organization, provides the operators must arrange a division of work after men have been idle 30 days. Fisher said the local union was demanding immediate share-the-work for those affected by the closing of the other mine.

NAZIS SEEK SOURCE OF INFORMATION GIVEN CARDINAL

Threat of Punishment If Identity of Ones Supplying Data Revealed

BERLIN, May 21.—The powerful Gestapo, German secret state police, began today to seek detailed information on German sources from which, it is believed, George Cardinal Mundelein obtained the information for his castigation of third Reich's attitude toward the Catholic church.

Reproductions of purported American newspaper accounts, published here, said the Chicago cardinal obtained his data about "immorality" trials of German Catholic monks and lay brothers and other material of the church-state situation from German residents, relayed through the Franciscan sisters in Illinois.

If the identity of any of these Germans can be established, it was learned, they will be punishable under a German law which classes as treason the circulation of "false reports" likely to do damage to the fatherland.

The penalty for treason is the headsman's ax.

What is regarded as even more probable is that the state will move against organizations, rather than individuals, if it can establish what it deems to be culpability. Many religious orders own property which might be confiscated.

Renews Broadsides

The controlled Nazi press renewed its broadsides against American Jews and Catholics today and demanded that the vatican "call to order" Cardinal Mundelein for attacks on Adolf Hitler.

The outbursts were extended to include not only the cardinal but Catholics and Jews generally and Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York, in particular.

Under the capition of "hair-raising immorality in New York high schools," the official news agency distributed an item throughout Germany describing an investigation into charges that there had been wholesale bootlegging of contraceptives among students of Brooklyn high schools.

"This action by the board of education," the dispatch said, "is further evidence of what unheard of things are possible in this city under the eyes of the Jew LaGuardia."

The agency said Brookyn is inhabited "chiefly by Jews and Catholics," and added that the investigation showed "high school pupils were working hand in hand with gangsters who supplied them with contraceptives."

(An investigation is being made by District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn into what he termed immorality among high school students in that borough.)

The press generally insisted on a definite showdown with the vatican over Cardinal Mundelein's description of the Reichschancellor as "an Austrian paperhanger, and a poor one at that" and of German trials of priests and lay brothers on immorality charges as worse propaganda than the atrocity tales of the world war.

YOU SAVE ON THE INITIAL COST AND GET Low Cost Per Mile WITH Firestone STANDARD TIRES

It really doesn't pay to drive on tires after the non-skid is worn off—in fact the last 1,000 miles of wear in a tire are only worth about 38c. Why take the risk of a dangerous skid, an accident or perhaps a fatal blowout when new Firestone Tires cost so little.

More and more motorists are buying Firestone Standard Tires because they get the benefits of Gum-Dipping, the Firestone Patented Process that counteracts internal friction and heat which ordinarily destroy tire life. Motorists get longer non-skid mileage and unusually low cost per mile with dependable safety. It is almost unbelievable that so much tire could be bought for so little.

You Save because when you buy a Firestone Standard Tire you get first grade quality. In fact this amazing tire value could only be made to sell at these low prices by building them in large volume. That's why you save in first cost and get low cost per mile.

You Save yourself from blowouts and accidents. The Patented Gum-Dipping process gives greater protection against dangerous blowouts. Firestone's patented construction of Two Extra Layers of Gum-Dipped Cords Under the Tread bind the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit. The wider and flatter tread of long wearing, tough rubber saves you from dangerous skids.

You Save by buying now as tire prices are advancing. The price of crude rubber has gone up 110% and cotton more than 26% during the past two years. Tire prices are very likely to go higher. Come in today and see how little it costs to get a set of safe, dependable Firestone Standard Tires.

Affiliate of CIO Wins Election On Bargaining

south side plants. It was at Aliquippa that most of the unrest occurred in the recent 36-hour strike which brought about the election.

A "J and L" spokesman, commenting on the fact that about 91 per cent of all eligible men voted, remarked:

"This shows the intense interest of the men. The men have spoken, that this is what they want."

H. E. Lewis, chairman of the corporation, issued this statement:

"The Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation is gratified that such an important issue has been so amicably settled by peaceful and democratic methods under the provisions of the Wagner act.

"Now that the election is over and our employes have made their decision, let us forget the tension of the past few weeks and cheerfully apply ourselves to our duties, as there is much for all of us to do with our order books better filled than for some time past."

By coincidence, it was J. and L., which challenged legality of the Wagner act and lost before the supreme court.

Rush Ballots For Count

The voting had ended officially at 2 a. m. The ballots, dropped by workers in the ballot boxes at the great mills as they began or ended their shifts, were rushed to Dunbar's headquarters by representatives of both sides and, in some instances, by uniformed policemen. They were gathered from 46 polling boxes.

At the counting machines were Lee Pressman, attorney for the CIO; W. H. Dupka, comptroller of the company, and Dunbar. They all appeared in amiable spirits and as soon as the result was announced Dunbar felicitated all concerned.

The first batch of ballots—from the south side steel district of Pittsburgh—did not arrive for tabulation until 4:29 a. m. They were seized eagerly from the red-faced, earnest union men who carried them. Other batches arrived at long intervals.

Pressman, emerging just before the total was handed out, grinned and said softly:

"It's a boy!"

News of the victory spread rapidly through the mill districts where the flare of blast furnaces cut the blackness before the dawn.

Weary workers of the night shift and sleepy-eyed mill men of the day shift quietly received the report as they passed one another through the plant gates at the 7 a. m. change.

The fresh workers glanced at the notice posted on the union headquarters just around the corner from the main entrance at the Aliquippa works, then moved on to their jobs of making steel.

They had voted determinedly, without demonstration. They viewed the results of their balloting without excitement.

Quiet little groups gathered on street corners in the south side of Pittsburgh in the shadow of the J. and L. mills to discuss the outcome.

"This really means something to me," one husky worker declared. "I voted for the right to decide how to live my life in the mill."

Frank Opeskavich, who has tended an open hearth furnace at Aliquippa since 1922, grinned broadly.

"Yes sir, we had to win this election. I got kids growing up in this town of Aliquippa. They'll go into the mill some day. They gotta be free."

BILL IS APPROVED ON PARKS BOARD

JEFFERSON CITY, May 21.—Setting up of a new state board to administer parks not covered by the "wildlife" amendment to the state constitution had both senate and house approval today, but was back in the house for a vote on senate amendments.

The bill was passed in the upper branch of the assembly yesterday afternoon after L. N. Searcy, Eminence, said it was regarded as necessary by both proponents and opponents of the new conservation commission setup, which goes into effect July 1.

Searcy, senate fish and game committee chairman, said it was agreed the amendment adopted last fall does not give conservation commission authority over parks not the site of game refugees or fish hatcheries, nor does it make provision for their support.

The bill passed would make the governor, conservation commissioner and attorney general members of the new park board, with full authority to make rules and regulations and acquire land through purchase, including use of eminent domain.

An appropriation of $155,000 for parks not covered by the conservation amendment has been recommended for the last 18 months of the biennium by W. C. Buford, state game and fish commissioner.

George A. Rozier, Perryville, opposed the park board measure on the ground its authority is not limited strictly to the parks not covered by the "wildlife" amendment.

Clyde Cope, Salem, said he felt the entire situation "up in the air" and that he felt sponsors of the wildlife amendment should "give us their opinion on what they propose and what they feel we should or should not do."

After the Coronation—Come the Cleaners

Resembling an American big city after a civic reception, is this scene in Parliament Square, London, after the excitement of the coronation subsided. Where millions fought for a place from which they could view the procession, the street-sweepers, with plenty of elbow room, go about their job.

Convicted Four More In Kansas City Vote Fraud

the defense were concluded Thursday in the seventh federal court trial resulting from grand jury investigation of alleged vote frauds in the last November 3 general election and the case will be given to the jury tomorrow.

After hearing the final arguments of attorneys for both sides, Judge Albert L. Reeves declared a recess until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow when he will instruct the jury.

The defendants, party workers and election officials in the seventh precinct of the 12th ward, were charged with conspiracy to defraud citizens of their votes. They are: Robert Strohm, Democratic precinct committeeman; Mrs. Irene Ervin, Republican clerk; Thomas Audley, Democratic challenger, and Gene Riley, Democratic judge.

George Arnold, another defendant pleaded guilty before the trial opened.

The government contended more than 200 ballots were voted illegally, either actively or by consent, by the defendants.

In his closing argument Maurice M. Milligan, United States District Attorney, charge two out of every five votes in the precinct were corrupted.

Gene Riley, 29, a Democratic judge at the November 3 elections, and one of the defendants, testified that Strohm "seemed to know about everything and seemed to be running things."

Thomas Audley, Democratic inside challenger, another of the defendants, testified he was not around the polls long on election day because he was virtually an invalid, having been injured while working as a city fireman in 1925.

Mrs. Irene Ervin, Democratic clerk, the third defendant who testified, replied "yes sir" when asked if Strohm dominated "everything and everybody" at the polls. She said she was suffering from influenza and was "scared to death" election day.

"Why, when I reached home that night," Mrs. Ervin told the jury, "I had to call a doctor and he said I was nervous and hysterical."

Asked why she worked if she was ill, she replied:

"Because my husband and I needed that $6."

FOUR HELD IN 'GRAIN WEIGHING RACKET'

INDIANAPOLIS, May 21.—State police sought today to tie together stray ends of a widespread grain-weight "racket" which they asserted has resulted in the swindling of thousands of dollars from elevator operators of the middle west.

Held by detectives here were four men giving their names as Herman Folk, 50; Glenn A. Folk, 20, and Alva Price, 29, all of Coffeyville, Kas., and Ora Folk, 45, of Indianapolis.

To Verne Shields and Russell Coons, state police detectives who arrested the men, they told a story of belonging to an organization which paid "royalties" to an ingenious "master mind" whom they knew as William Howard of St. Joseph, Mo., now serving a prison sentence in Kansas, for the use of a hydraulic jack used in their operations.

The jack arrangement, state police said, enabled truck drivers to increase the weight of a trailer-load of grain as much as thirty bushels.

Two women were taken into custody with the men. They said they were Mrs. Vern May Price, wife of Alva Price, and Gyneth Childers, 17, or Tyro, Mo., engaged to Glenn Folk.

The four men said the peak membership in the "racket" gang was 35 and that it operated in Illinois and Kansas as well as Indiana.

PRISON TERM IN DIPLOMA MILL CASES

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—United States District Judge Charles B. Davis overruled motions for new trials today and sentenced four men convicted by a federal court jury last May 6 on charges of using the mails to defraud through traffic in faked medical diplomas and licenses.

George M. Lindsay of Kansas City, whom the government named as the main figure in operations of the diploma mill, was sentenced to concurrent terms of 4 years in Leavenworth penitentiary on each of eight counts in an indictment on which he and the co-defendants were convicted.

His stepson, George M. Lindsay, Jr., was sentenced to eight concurrent terms of 3 years each in prison. Date R. Alexander, former secretary of the defunct Kansas City College of Medicine and Surgery, was sentenced to 4 years in prison on each of the eight counts.

Defense counsel had announced previously if the new trial motions were denied, they would appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Judge Davis deferred sentence on the fourth convicted defendant, "Prince" Ali Yehia Debeh, to give further consideration to his motion for a new trial. Debeh, postoffice inspectors testified during the trial, was a former Holt, Mo., farm boy who became an "Egyptian arthritis specialist" after purchasing fraudulent medical credentials from the elder Lindsay for $2,500.

Shortly afterwards, Judge Davis also denied Debeh's motion and sentenced him to 2 years in prison on each of the eight counts, the terms to be served concurrently.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The Weakness of Esau, Genesis 25:27-34; 27:41-45 for Sunday, May 23.

The lesson is the story of two brothers; though twins, they were very different in their characteristics, Esau being carnally minded while Jacob was greedy and an astute politician.

V. 27. "And the boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was a plain man dwelling in tents." Esau was devoted to material objectives, living entirely for the things of flesh; Jacob had a quiet disposition devoted to home and mother.

V. 28. "And Isaac loved Esau because he did eat of his venison; but Rebekah loved Jacob.' Partiality in parental affection works havoc in many a family.

Vs. 29, 30. "And Jacob boiled pottage; and Esau came in from the field, and he was faint; And Esau said to Jacob: "Feed me, I pray thee with the same red pottage, for I am faint;" Therefoer was his name called Edom." Esau lacked self-control and yielded to physical appetite. He lived on the lower realm of the physical. He made for himself a name, Edom, not very complimentary.

V. 31. "And Jacob said, "Sell me first thy birthright." Jacob possessed foresight; he knew his brother's weakness and set a trap for him; he tok advantage of his weaker brother—a prevailing form of dishonesty.

V. 32. "And Esau said, "Behold, I am about to die; and what profit shall the birthright do to me?" In discounting his birthright, he lost out. He stepped down and out as a victim of his own appetite.

V. 33. "And Jacob said, Swear me first; and he swear unto him; and he sold his birthright unto Jacob." Jacob would make sure of his bargain by requiring a binding oath. Evidently Jacob had planned thoroughly and now he worked his plans.

V. 34. "And Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of lentils; and he did eat and drink, and rose up and went away; so Esau despised his birthright," Esau's story is very much like that of the prodigal son in that "He rose and went away."

V. 41. "And Esau hated Jacob because of the blessing wherewith his father blessed him: and Esau said in his heart, The days of mourning for my father are at hand; then I will slay my brother Jacob" It is a law of life that one is getting better all the time or worse all the time. One does not stand still morally. Esau at first scorned his birthright and satisfied his appetite; now he entertains murder in his heart.

V. 42. "And the words of Esau her elder son were told to Rebekah; and she sent and called Jacob her younger son, and said unto him, "Behold, thy brother Esau, as touching thee, doth comfort himself, purposing to kill thee." It is hard to keep family secrets from mother, who is quick to sense the workings of the mind of her children; mother is always hopeful that things will work out all right.

V. 43, 44. "Now therefore, my son, obey my voice; and arise, flee thou to Laban my brother to Haran; and tarry with him a few days, until thy brother's fury turn away." Rebekah was a disappointed mother as her scheme failed and she never again saw her favorite son. Sin blasts the home life and brings mothers to grief. Here was a family feud that left its mark on history. Often it is a division of the family property that gives rise to trouble. No sooner is the father's will disposing of his estate filed in the court, than in many instances there is a division and quarrel among the children, and law-suits are started and bitter feuds arise that may plague several generations.

V. 45. "Until thy brother's anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou hast done to him; then I will send and fetch thee from thence." Why should I be bereaved of you both in one day?" There is no one more hopeful than a mother; she is always planning for the children to come home again; she is hopeful that family ill feelings will be forgotten; it does not matter how far away a child may wander, mother's love never dies.

DO YOU KNOW?

1. What is the very small service for which Christ promised a reward?
2. Who complained that "man that is born of woman is of few days and full of trouble?
3. With what saying did Christ insist on the sanctity of [illegible]age?
4. Finish the quotation, "Oh! that I had the wings like a dove.
5. With what saying did Christ exact little children?
6. Of what young man is it recorded that "Jesus beholding him loved him?

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

Discussion Questions on S.S. Lesson

The Weakness of Esau, Genesis 25:27-34; 27:41-45 for Sunday, May 23.

1. What constitutes a Christian birthright?
2. How may it be sold?
3. What results follow the losing of our Christian birthright?
4. Wherein was the character of Esau weak?
5. What were the weak points in the character of Jacob?
6. How account for God blessing Jacob who was a trickster?

W. J. Dawson says, "We smile at the Medieval legends of men selling their souls to the devil. I have seen men sell their revenge to win the laughter of fools, the imbecile applause of men whose only idea of wit was profanity or indecency. I have seen men sell their ease of conscience to feel a moment's immunity from duty, or their purity for their first devouring pleasure, or worse, for the cold and calculated license of a moment's passion."

BOOK REVIEW

The Use of the Story in Religious Education by Eggleston, Harper and Bros., contains practical suggestions to parents and teachers who want to know what story should be told and how to tell it. The author shows the neglected possibilities of the story in quickening the mental and spiritual life of children. This revised edition, composed of entirely fresh story material replaces a book which was for years a standard source of reference.

World Religious News

Yale University will begin the construction of a Catholic Chapel for the use of Catholic students on the campus, beginning June 1st. There will also be quarters for the activities of the Catholic Clubs, including a literary and meeting room for lectures.

India's population is estimated at 3000,000,000. One-fifth of these, 72,000,000 are untouchables. Several millions of the latter have recently requested Christian instruction and ninety per cent of the present membership of the Christian churches comes from this class.

The 800 graduates of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, now serving churches in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan, received about a year ago the Institute's request for information about closed churches in rural areas and small villages. Students of the Institute were willing to travel many miles in the week-end to help such centers resume meetings.

Eminent churchmen of many nationalities will visit Columbus, Ohio, in May to participate in celebration of the completion of 100 years of foreign missions by the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A., which will hold its annual General Assembly in that city beginning May 27.

The Rev. Dr. George Linn Keiffer, statistician of the National Lutheran Council, fell dead of heart failure Sunday, April 25th, in the pulpit of Christ Lutheran church, New York City, two minutes after he had opened an address. He died at the age of 53, in the only church he ever served as pastor. His two chief interests were a wish to have reliable church statistics in all faiths, which led to the establishment of the Association of Religious Statisticians of America, and a wish to arouse interest in the need for education and home mission work in suburban communities near New York.

WIT AND WISDOM

Sure To Be Convinced

"I can't marry him, mother, he's an atheist and doesn't believe there is a hell."

"Marry him, my dear, and between us we'll convince him that he's wrong."

The survey committee of the National Committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery states: "A century of religious progress has eventuated in an institution of impressive stability and strength. The church is part and parcel of the Nation. It has been desperately hit by depression and sadly needs recovery. But, in the recovery process, the church is not a weakling which must be carried, more than other elements of civilization. If it can have anything like the proportionate interests which it has ristorically had during the past one hundred years, it will do more for the Nation's recovery than the Nation can do for it by concerning itself with the church's immediate financial crisis and necessity. WHY NOT ACCEPT THE INVITATION AND COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

How may one overcome temptation? Dr. E. Stanley Jones in his book, Victorious Living, suggests eight factors helpful in meeting temptation. When tempted undertake a task that consumes your time and energy; if alone when an evil thought comes, join a group of people if possible, and the thought life will likely change. Change the mental picture by concentrating on the life of Christ, especially on his crucifixion. Learn to discipline your mind so that, like a radio, you can turn your mind in any chosen direction. Let your mind rest on the purest and the best thoughts before going to sleep, that there may be stored up in the subsconscious mind sources of better thoughts. Keep the body fit by proper exercise and proper hygenic care. Undertake to help some one else in real moral battles. Breathe an ejaculatory prayer the moment an impure thought is presented.

The Prodigal Father

A certain man had two sons and the younger said, "Father, give me a portin of thy time, attention, companionship, counsel and guidance which belongeth to me." And the father divided with him his living, paid his bills, sent him to a select preparatory school and college, and tried to believe that thereby he did his full duty.

Not many days thereafter the father gathered all his interest and ambitions and journeyed into far country of stocks and bonds. There is wasted his precious opportunity to be a father to his son, and a chum. When he had spent the best part of his life and had gained much money, but failed to find satisfaction, there arose a mighty famine in his heart. He began to be in want of sympathy and companionship. He joined himself to one of the clubs of that country. They sent him to the legislature, and he fain would have filled himself with the husks that other men did eat, but no man gave him real friendship.

But when he came to himself he said: I will arise and go to my son and say, "Son, I have sinned against heaven and thee; I have not done my duty by thee and am not worthy to be called thy father. Forgive me now and let me be thy chum." But his son said: "Not so, it is too late. There was a time when I wanted your love, but you were too busy. There is nothing now that you can do for me." And the father went out and wept bitterly, and his heart seemed as black as midnight.

The Better Way

Christians and the Slums

An appeal to church members has been issued by the Federal Council of Churches through its executive committee, "to support all sound and effective measures for slum clearance and the rehousing of low-income wage-earners and, without passing judgment on any particular legislative proposals, approve the general principle of assistance by federal, state and local governments."

Commenting on the part which the churches should play in a national movement for better housing, an editorial in the April Federal Council Bulletin says: "The churches may not have the technical competence to determine the methods by which the appalling conditions in our cities can best be overcome, but there is something basic which they can do. They can shake the public out of its callous complacency. They can awaken the imagination to see the wreckage of life and personality that present conditions mean. They can arouse a moral demand that ways of redressing this great social wrong can be found. The greatest need is for a new conscience on the subject; that conscience the churches by concerted action can supply."

THE SEVENTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY PROGRAM

The members and friends of First Methodist church will enjoy themselves next Wednesday evening around dinner tables in the large dining rooms of the church. Dr. Robert A. Hunt, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Lawrence, Kas., will be the speaker. Dr. Hunt entered the ministry from First Church and it is fitting that he should be the speaker for the occasion.

Sunday evening, May 30th, Dr. Glenn A. Baldwin, former pastor of the church and now pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in St. Joseph will deliver the anniversary message.

The Weakness of Esau — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Genesis 24:19-34; 26:34, 35; 27:1-46.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Jacob and Esau were sons of Isaac and Rebecca. Esau was a hunter. Returning from a hunt he was hungry and sold his birthright as elder son to Jacob for a mess of pottage.

In Isaac's 136th year, his wife and son Jacob deceived him into bequeathing his dying blessing to Jacob, who pretended he was Esau, while Esau was out hunting some venison for Isaac.

Upon Esau's return he learned of Jacob's treachery in stealing his father's blessing, and wept bitterly and vowed to kill Jacob as soon as their father was dead.

To escape Esau's wrath Jacob fled to his mother's brother's home. Rebecca wept as Jacob fled. She probably never saw him again.

GIANTS DEPART BUT THE GAS HOUSE GANG ISN'T SURRENDERING

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—(AP)—The Gas House Gang has no intention of surrendering, but perhaps the large white towel Coach Mike Gonzales waved may bring peace, temporarily at least, to the National League's St. Louis battle front.

Then again, the Brooklyn Dodgers, who open a two-game series here today, may be as willing to battle it out as were the departed New York Giants. Or an umpire may call another balk.

George Barr, whose balk ruling against Dizzy Lean led to Wednesday's "battle of a century," resented jeers from the Cardinal dugout and chased Manager Frankie Frisch just before the start of yesterday's series finale with the Giants.

As the umpire turned to walk back to his position behind third base, Gonzales leaned forward on the bench and waved the towel as a flag of truce. That failed, however to prevent two arguments during the game, but both were brief and not in the usual Cardinal manner.

Still angry over Barr's ruling, Dizzy Dean raced onto the field in the eighth inning to argue what he thought was Umpire Dolly Stark's failure to call a balk on Fred Fitzsimmons. A few minutes later, a swarm of Cardinals surrounded Stark when he called Mickey Owen out on strikes to end the inning with three men stranded on the bases. The Cards lost both arguments.

Although the Giants won, 7 to 4, when Dick Bartell smashed a home run with the bases loaded, young Don Gutteridge of the Cardinals found some sweetness in defeat. The Pittsburg, Kas., boy's slashing single with the bases loaded in the fifth inning was revenge for the black eye he suffered in Wednesday's free-for-all.

The Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Reports persist the New York State Athletic Commission will reinstate Barney Ross without making him go through the formality of defending his welterweight title against Ceferino Garcia, of Los Angeles.... Which would pave the way for a Ross-Pedro Montanez bout, which Jack Dempsey is pulling the old wires for....No wonder Mike Jacobs and the Garden are jittery..... They've been trying to land this plum for months, but were handcuffed by the suspension of Ross... They will burn to a crisp if Dempsey plucks it from right under their noses.

Marquette University golfers were boiling when they returned home the other day after losing a match away from home....Playing on a strange course for the first time, they approached the 16th tee and asked their hosts which way to drive...."That way," replied the home boys, pointing....So the Marquetters drove "that way" quite well....Imagine how they felt when the locals teed up and headed in the opposite direction.....Marquette's golfers took 8's and 9's on the hole, while the home boys holed out in 4's.

Correction: Stan Bordagaray of the Cardinals and not Wally Berger of the Bees is the outfielder the Giants are dickering for....(But the fisticuffs the other day may have delayed the deal)....Benny Huffman, now catching regularly for the Browns, was behind the plate for Bridgewater College, a small institution of only 250 students, a year ago....How's that for leaping?.... Can it be true that Al Weill intends to turn down a guarantee of $50,000 for Lou Ambers to defend his lightweight crown against Pedro Montanez?....Quick Watson, a shot!

One major league manager who doesn't grow old is Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox....Lou Brix is on the way to Detroit with bantamweight champ Sixto Escobar to close for a title shot against K. O. Morgan under Jack Kearns' auspices....Sixto will take the bout if they can agree on a date before July 15....Otherwise, he is going to London to fight Peter Kane for a $15,000 guarantee.....Have you bought your ticket for the Braddock-Schmeling fight yet?....Officially, President Ford Frick had to slap on a fine or two for the riot in St. Louis....Privately and confidentially, he probably wishes he had been on hand to see it and report it for the papers as he used to do before he became an exec.

Bob Feller to Stay on Bench During Indians' Present Eastern Trip

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—Manager Steve O'Neill announced today that Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' youthful strikeout king, would do no further pitching on the club's current eastern trip which ends May 27.

O'Neill's announcement came after Feller reported his "million dollar" right arm felt weak and that some trace of soreness remained.

The Iowa youth has made only one appearance since he suffered the injury in his first American League start of the season, at Cleveland April 24. Against the Boston Red Sox Tuesday in a relief role he walked a batter on five pitches and was replaced immediately.

King Carl Hubbell Is "Star of the Month"

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Although pressed closely by five other players in both leagues, Carl Hubbell was big league baseball's "star of the month" in the opening 30-day period of the season.

The Giants' great left-hander was named five times during the month in the Associated Press daily list of "yesterday's stars," one more than each of his nearest rivals—his teammate, Dick Bartell; Van Mungo of the Dodgers, the Cardinals Ducky Medwick and Dizzy Dean, and the Detroit Tigers' Gerry Walker.

A total of 17 players from both leagues were mentioned three or more times.

Mungo, the No. 1 "star" of 1936 started off well enough, but faded his last two times out.

BASEBALL'S ONLY WOMAN SCOUT HAS SENT MANY A STAR TO THE WHITE SOX IN LAST 13 YEARS

McKINNEY, Texas, May 21.—(AP)—Baseball's only woman scout, Mrs. Roy Largent, laid aside her sock darning today to tell of "her boys."

With 13 seasons of combing the minors for the Chicago White Sox behind her, she has sent many a star to the windy city.

Luke Appling, the 1936 batting champ, was her find. Zeke Bonura, slugging first sacker, another. And then there's Monte Stratton, Rip Radcliff, Johnny Whitehead and Vern Kennedy.

The warm spot in Mrs. Largent's heart belongs to Stratton, lean six foot, five inch twirler with two shutouts on his record already this year.

Just a boy of 19 in overalls when found, Stratton was a frequent visitor at her home and was most adept at lifting Mrs. Largent's gingerbread cookies from the jar, she remarked.

Most interesting of all her "boys" however, was Art (What-a-Man) Shires.

"I liked Art Shires because he was husky, aggressive and could hit the ball a mile," she said.

"But I guess Shires carried aggressiveness a little too far when he hit Lena Blackburne, then manager of the Sox. In general, he just conducted himself more like a pugilist than a ball player."

Today Mrs. Largent still looks for aggressiveness in her ball players.

Mrs. Largent's husband, Roy, accompanies her on all her trips. Every day during the baseball season they see a game somewhere—once it was four.

Today, the Largents, having signed three prospects out of the Southwest Conference, left by automobile for Louisiana. They'll drive 60,000 miles, touring the smaller leagues this year.

Distilling of gin is an art—the subtle blending of many ingredients, expert care and timing of every step in distillation, rigid standards in testing and bottling. DOWNTURN TO WHEAT MARKET

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—Material downturns of wheat values took place late today, largely because of selling led by houses with eastern connections.

May wheat in particular displayed a decided downward trend. This was associated with notices of intentions to delived 700,000 bushels on Chicago May wheat contracts tomorrow.

At the close, wheat was 1½ to 3¾ cents under yesterday's finish, May $1.28¼ to $1.28⅝, July $1.20⅝ to $1.20¾, corn ⅛ cent off to 1½ cent up, May $1.23½, July $1.19⅜ to $1.19½, and oats ½ cent lower to ¼ cent higher.

LULL ENSUES ON LEADING STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Traders turned a cold shoulder to all but store shares in late dealings today.

For much of the session numerous leaders found luke-warm friends, but as trading progressed most groups were allowed to shift for themselves and modest gains were erased.

As the market came into the final few minutes losses of fractions to around a point predominated. Particularly neglected were rails, motors, metals and steels.

The street's appetite for merchandising issues was said to have been whetted by estimates of well-sustained consumer buying power.

Transactions approximated 750,000 shares.

MOTHERS ARE RESPONSIBLE

The family looks to you to aid your doctor in keeping them well. You can help prevent much illness and poor health by guarding them from common constipation.

Most constipation comes from faulty diet—meals low in "bulk." This condition can be corrected so easily and pleasantly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides the safe way to prevent constipation by putting "bulk" back in the diet. Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass which gently sponges out the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron. It is so much better for your family than constant dosing with artificial pills and drugs.

Two tablespoonfuls daily as a cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes, are enough for the average person. Three times daily in severe cases.

Sold at all grocers—and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TELLS OF NIGHT VISIT TO DEATH CELL IN PRISON

Revealed in Federal Court Conspiracy Case In New Jersey

NEW, N. J., May 21.—(AP)—Two nocturnal visits by Detective Ellis H. Parker to Bruno Richard Hauptmann's death cell before Gov. Harold G. Hoffman made his secret trip to see the condemned Lindbergh kidnaper were revealed Thursday in the federal court conspiracy trial of Parker and his son.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, now superintendent of state police but principal keeper of state prison when Hauptmann was confined and electrocuted there, made the disclosure as a government witness in the trial of the Burlington county chief of dectectives and Ellis Parker, Jr. They are accused of conspiracy in the Paul H. Wendel abduction, a sequel to the Lindbergh crime.

Col. Kimberling could not give the exact dates of the Parker visits but said he believed the last was before July 1, 1935, less than five months after Hauptmann was taken to the Trenton prison after his conviction at Flemington.

Kimberling asserted he gave his permission for the visits.

Prior to today's testimony, the only state official publicly known to have visited him was Governor Hoffman, who repeatedly expressed his belief Hauptman's execution was not the final solution of the Lindbergh case.

The Parkers are charged with plotting the abduction of Wendel, whose "confession" that he kidnaped the Lindbergh child delayed for three days Hauptmann's electrocution. The "confession," allegedly obtained through torture, was repudiated, Wendel was cleared and Hauptmann went to the electric chair April 3, 1936.

The government neared the end of its case today, calling other witnesses who testified Wendel was at his Trenton home the night of the Lindbergh kidnaping, March 1, 1932.

His wife, Mrs. Mary Wendel, asserted he spent the evening in the cellar with Karl Markau, a Trenton plumber. Markau corroborated this and said Wendel was not out of his presence a minute.

The defense, indicating it might yet seek to prove Wendel the real kidnaper, drew from Mrs. Wendel the admission that she "of course loved" her husband and sought to show that Markau, a friend of Wendel's for many years, might have been mistaken in the date.

Markau was uncertain of the day of the week and of dates of previous visits at the Wendel home but insisted he was sure of the March 1 occasion.

BALLOTING ON BARGAINING IN STEEL PLANTS

Results In Referendum Are Expected To Be Known Friday

STRIKE IN DETROIT PLYMOUTH PLANT

Truce Restores Electric Service In Thirteen Michigan Counties

By The Associated Press.

DETROIT, May 20—The Chrysler Corporation announced that a strike which closed its Plymouth plant here was settled late today.

By The Associated Press

Orderly balloting marked the largest industrial election thus far supervised by the national labor board which claimed widespread attention in labor circles today.

More than 9,000 workers were estimated to have voted by noon at Pittsburgh and Aliquippa, Pa., in the referendum which will determine whether John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization unions will represent the men in collective bargaining with the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation.

Special officers patrolled the election zone but encountered no serious trouble though warrants were sworn for seven employes of Republic Steel Corporation. The CIO steel workers organizing committee charged the seven had attempted to "interfere" with the balloting.

The election results were expected to be known tomorrow.

In Detroit, a strike stopped the assembly line in the Plymouth division of Chrysler Corporation. It was the first shutdown in a Chrysler unit since the company ended a protracted strike five weeks ago by signing an agreement with the United Automobile Workers of America.

Three thousand workers remained on strike at the fabrication mill of the Aluminum Company of America plant at Alcoa, Tenn. Union officials said no effort would be made to close the company's carbon and reduction shop, where 1,000 still are employed, because it would cause expense and delay.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation, another large independent, was faced with a strike of several hundred workers at Johnstown, Pa. The Committee for Industrial Organization refused to sanction the walkout for higher wages.

Restore Electric Service

A truce providing for immediate negotiation of differences over wages rates resulted in restoration of electric service in 13 Michigan counties. A strike by employes of the Consumers Power Company at Saginaw caused suspension of service in Bay City, Flint, Saginaw and 190 smaller communities.

Negotiators will meet with Gov. Frank Murphy who termed the strike "unnecessary." It was called by the United Automobile Workers of America.

The Federated Motion Picture Crafts said its strike would be extended to 27 independent film producers at midnight unless they granted demands for a union shop. The studio strike against major concerns reached its 21st day.

American Federation of Labor leaders made preparations for a meeting at Cincinnati Monday with representatives of 106 unions. There were indications President Green would propose a unionization campaign in mass production industries to combat the C. I. O.

Scattered strikes in Indiana made approximately 9,000 workers idle. An estimated 7,000 of them were employes of the Studebaker Motor Co., at South Bend. The latter dispute involved a union protest against non-union employes.

THREE INJURED AS AUTOS SIDESWIPE

In a collision of automobiles on highway No. 40, four miles east of Marshall Junction, about 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning Hugo Sparn, superintendent for the Prudential Insurance Company escaped injury while occupants of the other car, a Buick, sustained injuries and were taken to Fitzgibbons hospital at Marshall for treatment.

In the Buick headed west were L. A. McKenna, accompanied by his cook and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Swartz of Boulder, Colo., who were returning from a trip to Florida.

The Sparn automobile, in which he was en route to Pipertown, was traveling east and the other car sideswiped, the Buick going into a ditch on the south side of the highway as it careened off the concrete. Both cars were badly wrecked.

Mrs. Swartz, it was believed by those rendering first aid while awaiting an ambulance, sustained a fractured leg while Mr. Swartz had numerous cuts and bruises. Mr McKenna had a severe cut on his nose.

KENYON TRIAL IS SET FOR JUNE 15

WEST PLAINS, Mo., May 20.—(AP)—The trial of Robert Kenyon, Young Howell county farm youth and alleged kidnaper and slayer of Dr. J. C. B. Davis of Willow Springs in January, has been set for Tuesday, June 15, in circuit court here, according to Circuit Clerk Blain Jennings.

Prosecuting Attorney Will D. Roberts said today he has been advised a Kansas City attorney has been employed to defend Kenyon who is still in jail at Kansas City.

Cars Collide

A car driven by Ellsworth Lilly, taxi driver, collided with a Chevrolet, driven by Mrs. W. L. Hodges, 309 East Second street, at the intersection of highway 65 and Eighteenth street, Wednesday night. The taxi was slightly damaged.

WITHDRAWAL IS URGED ON COURT REFORM BILL

Some Talk of Compromise To Restrict It To Two Added Judges

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Roosevelt denied through a secretary today that his senate advisers were urging him to withdraw his court reorganization bill or accept a compromise.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Roosevelt's closest senate advisors were urging him today to withdraw his court reorganization bill or restrict it to two additional justices.

They argued that the original bill no longer is needed, because the court is construing the constitution more broadly and because Justice Van Devanter's retirement is approaching.

Mr. Roosevelt still gave no public indication that he would yield. Many senators predicted he would stand firm until the supreme court decides the constitutionality of the social security law.

There were indications, however, of private negotiations for a compromise. Administration leaders in the senate certainly were talking it.

The President himself called Senator Nye (R-ND) to the White House yesterday for a conference, which Nye would not discuss afterwards.

The North Dakotan, one of the last Republicans senators to declare against the Roosevelt bill, frequently has criticized the supreme court. He long has been associated with Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) and La Follette (Prog-Wis), both of whom are supporting the court bill.

Word was passed around in the senate that the President discussed with Nye a compromise on two, instead of six, new supreme court justices. Nye would neither confirm nor deny the report.

Senator Frazier (R-ND), also was understood to have received a White House invitation.

Court bill opponents said the administration was now working for the two justice compromise instead of the proposal supported in the judiciary commitee with the approval of Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, for appointment of one justice a year as long as any incumbents were over 75.

There was strong sentiment in the senate for withdrawal of the bill entirely and substitution of a constitutional amendment to require retirement of judges at 70 or 75 year of age.

Even some supporters of the Roosevelt bill argued privately that this now would meet the situation.

Opponents were just beginning today to write the committee's adverse report on the bill, and it appeared likely that the supreme court would rule on the social security act before debate could begin in the senate.

That might make it possible to work out a solution to the controversy before the issue reaches the floor.

Because developments on the bill all were backstage, senate discussion centered today on the possibility of Senator Robinson being appointed to succeed Justice Van Devanter.

Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican, said every Republican vote would be cast for confirmation of the appointment, if it was forthcoming. He added he would be inclined to ask for confirmation without even sending the nomination to a committee.

There was even talk of getting up a petition to the President, but it was not pressed.

Talk of legal obstacles to selection of a member of congress died down as Senators Borah (R-Idaho), Wheeler (D-Mont), Burke (D-Neb), and other constitutional authorities said they had no doubt of Robinson's eligibility.

SENATE APPROVES SALARY HIKES TO CIRCUIT CLERKS

"Grab Bag" Charges Are Reiterated By Senator Donnelly

SPOTLIGHT ON OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

House Social Security Committee To Take It Up In Hearing

JEFFERSON CITY, May 20.—Salary hikes for circuit clerks, old age assistance, and the law on delinquent tax collections figured prominently in the legislative picture today.

The circuit clerk measure had senate approval on a 26 to 3 vote despite reiterated "grab bag" charges made during yesterday afternoon's session, but must go back to the house for a vote on a senate amendment clipping off part of the increase.

It places the clerks on a salary rather than a fee basis.

Old age assistance was spotlighted because of the house social security committee's scheduled closed hearing tonight on Senator M. E. Casey's pension-relief-child welfare measure.

The bill makes changes in the old age assistance law asked by representatives of the federal social security board. Governor Stark announced late yesterday a hearing by the U. S. body at which Missouri is to "show cause" why federal matching of old age payment should not be cut off has been postponed a second time—from May 25 to June 1. Stark has urged passage of the Casey measure before the hearing.

The salary increase for circuit clerks—sponsored by Rep. John D. Taylor, Chariton county,—drew fire from Senator Phil Donnelly, Lebanon, who reiterated "grab bag" charges made recently in his attack on restoration of the office of county treasurer in 74 counties. The bill affects all counties except Greene, Buchanan, Jasper, Jackson and St. Louis.

Senator Clyde Cope, Salem, defended the measure, saying newspapers had criticized the assembly unjustly for "small increases made to underpaid county officials" and had used Donnelly's "grab bag" remark as "a juicy morsel."

"I have no apology to make for my statement about this being a grab bag session," Donnelly said. "I am willing to rest on the records this senate and house have written, and I think it will convict us."

Senators Albert M. Clark, Richmond, and Delmar Dail, Marceline said compensation of circuit clerks has been so reduced there was little inducement in the office for high type candidates.

The bill as passed by the senate gives a flat increase averaging $200 in all but a few counties, and another hike—on a graduated scale from $100 to $500—for duties of the circuit clerk "as clerk of the juvenile court."

The first increase, it was said, will not be effective until expiration of the present term of office, but the hike "as juvenile court clerk" does not conflict with the constitutional bar against raising pay of an office holder during his term, and would be effective for present clerks.

Donnelly tried to eliminate the juvenile court pay as "subterfuge" but was voted down.

Present maximum compensation of circuit clerks on a fee basis, and total pay under the proposed law, is as follows in these counties:

Boone $2,500 and $3,000; Butler $2,100 and $2,800; Cape Girardeau $2,500 and $3,000; Cole $2,500 and $3,000; Grundy $1,700 and $2,300; Marion $2,200 and $3,000; Nodaway $2,300 and $3,000; Pettis $2,500 and $3,000; Vernon $2,300 and $3,000.

WOUND AT DRINKING PARTY IS FATAL

KANSAS CITY, May 20—Richard J. Lynch, 33, shot Tuesday night during a drinking party in the apartment of Mrs. Pauline Coleman, died early today.

Police said the 37-year-old woman, a former manicurist, told them she shot Lynch accidentally while playing with a pistol. She was charged with assault with intent to kill, and released on $5,000 bond.

Lynch is survived by his widow and 12-year-old son.

VOTE SALARY CUT TO CCC DIRECTOR

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The senate voted today to cut the salary of Civilian Conservation Corps Director Robert Fechner from $12,000 to $10,000 annually.

The salary-trimming amendment was adopted 44 to 29.

It was offered by Senator Clark (D-Mo.) to legislation for establishing the CCC on a permanent basis. A similar agreement already had been approved by the house.

The salary was slashed over the protest of Senator Copeland (D-N. Y).

INSURANCE MEN GIVE TALKS TO THE KIWANIANS

Program Given In Connection With Insurance Week

The Sedalia Kiwanis Club meeting at Hotel Bothwell yesterday heard a interesting program on Life Insurance, which was a part of the Local Life Insurance Underwriters's program for Life Insurance Week which ends Saturday.

A. H. Wilks presided and introduced the following members of the local association who were present: C. G. Wilson, C. E. Byler, Sam Stone, L. B. Pratt, Leonard Ruffin, Paul Kirner, Guy Peabody, W. E. Scotten, A. H. Wilks, T. H. Yount, J. T. Denny, H. M. Sparn, Kenneth Johnson and also introduced Guy Cowden an insurance man from Springfield, Ill.

Principal talks were made by Mr. Wilks who explained the purposes of Life Insurance Week and C. G. Wilson who spoke on the benefits of educational insurance on small payment plans which was of much interest to those present. In speaking of insurance in general Mr. Wilson stated that in 1908 one out of every eight persons carried life insurance policies while today every other person in the United States is provided with life insurance protection. Mr. Wilks pointed out that today one hundred four and a half billion dollars of life insurance is now in force in the United States.

W. E. Scotten closed the program with a talk on the benefits of insurance as a future security and explained the numerous options under which beneficiaries might plan their future security.

C. L. Hanley club president also introduced Mrs. John E. Armstrong who spoke briefly on the "Poppy Day" sales which will be held in Sedalia.

EXPRESS FEAR ON PLANS OF THE DUKE

LONDON, May 20—Friends of the Duke of Windsor expressed the fear today that any effort on his part to carry out his reported determination to bolster the influence of the royal family would backfire with the gravest possibility of injury to the institution of the monarchy itself.

They pointed out that, while the abdicated monarch had probably been embittered by the decision that no member of the royal family would attend his wedding to Mrs. Wallis Warfield, any suggestion he might head a fight against the advisors of King George VI was "fantastic."

Dispatches from Paris reported persons close to Windsor said he considered the same quarters that led him to abdicate were now attempting to curtail his brother's influence and that he planned to do all possible to aid George keep some of his royal rights.

The net result of Edward's abdication, so he might marry Mrs. Warfield, his friends here said, was to demonstrate beyond question the King of England has no political power.

Any move by the self-exiled former king, they added, to increase the personal influence of King George might rebound with disastrous results.

INSURGENTS IN BILBAO ADVANCE ARE BLOCKED

Reformed Defense Line Temporarily Halts Gen. Mola's Forces

By The Associated Press.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 20—Grim Basque militiamen, their backs to Bilbao's last defense wall, blocked the insurgent offensive at least temporarily today.

Bilbao commanders declared one of Gen. Emilio Mola's columns had stalled against the reformed defense line in its thrust from fallen, half-mined Amorebieta, about eight miles east by southeast from the tottering Basque capital.

An insurgent communique said Mola's forces captured Mount Gondramendi and six villages in an advance on a six-mile front northwest of Amorebieta.

The commander reported the insurgents had reached within 1,000 feet of an important Basque communications center in that sector but did not locate it. His report said Bilbao's defenders abandoned more than 200 dead on the battlefield besides losing 100 prisoners and 30 deserters. Forty civilian families also were reported to have sought refuge behind the insurgent lines.

A Basque dispatch conceded the insurgents' continued progress in the vicinity of Munguia, nine miles northeast of Bilbao, and said the defenders had "modified slightly" their "positions of resistance." It reported heavy insurgent casualties.

This advance line was about five miles from Galdacano, a key point in the city's "Little Maginot Line" of steel and concrete fortifications and trenches forming a protective semi-circle against the push of the insurgent legions.

MOVE TO DELAY FARM PROGRAM

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A movement to postpone action until next year on the agricultural adjustment program drafted by farm organizations developed today among congressional leaders.

They pointed out that a delay would aid the economy campaign and would give farmers time to study the legislation, which combines authorization for production control, soil conservation, limited crop insurance and an ever-normal granary.

The cost might be between $200,000,000 and $200,000,000 greater than the present soil conservation program, said American Farm Bureau officials.

Although final decision lay with President Roosevelt, Secretary Wallace said yesterday he hoped a broad federal program along the lines of that bill would be enacted at this session.

On the premise that excessive surpluses had contributed to the breaking of the proper price relationship, the old AAA sought to reestablish it by curtailing production. Cooperating farmers were given benefit payments from processing taxes on commodities thus curtailed.

While it would set up a more complicated system, the proposed new AAA is designed similarly to keep production of major farm commodities in line with normal demands.

'LINDY' FLEW THE ATLANTIC TEN YEARS AGO

St. Louis Backers Recall Arrival In "Old Crate" There In 1925

FLIGHT MADE FOR PRIZE OF $25,000

"Spirit of St. Louis" Constructed Especially For Ocean Hop

By OSCAR KAHAN

ST. LOUIS, May 20.—Charles A. Lindbergh, his only possession an extra suit of clothes, flew to St. Louis in an "old crate" in the spring of 1925. Two years later he had spanned the Atlantic to win the adulation of the world.

Major Albert Bond Lambert, wealthy pioneer airman and vice-president of the board of police commissioners, who knew Lindbergh from the day he first reached St. Louis, recalled the young pilot today on the tenth anniversary of the epic flight from New York to Paris.

Lambert and Phil Love, now lieutenant colonel and air officer of the 35th division of the Missouri National Guard, were seated on a bench at Lambert's "cow pasture," which became the present Lambert-St. Louis municipal airport, when Lindbergh landed.

The boyish-appearing flier, his hair tousled, walked from the plane and said, "How do you do? Where can I get a hot dog sandwich?" When he got it and returned, he asked, "Any place around here a fellow can stay?"

"Love, who had no more resources than Lindbergh, looked him over," Lambert recalled. "Then he said, 'You can join me in my hut, if you want. I live out here.'"

The "hut" had but one cot. Lindbergh moved far over to one side of it that night, leaving at least three-fourths of the bed for his host. The next morning, Love gave Lindbergh the nickname, "Slim," commenting, "that fellow could sleep on the edge of a slat."

Lindy stayed at Love's hut two years. He became an instructor for the Robertson Aircraft Corporation and later one of its air mail pilots when the company was awarded a contract for the St. Louis-Chicago route.

Anxious For Prize

Lambert said the idea of crossing the Atlantic came to Lindbergh on his solitary night flight with the mail. Six years earlier, 1919, Raymond Orteig had offered $25,000 to the first man to fly non-stop from New York to Paris.

On Dec. 23, 1926, an afternoon when a hard snow was falling, Lindbergh walked into Lambert's office.

"I've got a proposition I'd like to ask you about," he said. "It's something I'm going to do. I want to make the trans-Atlantic flight for that prize."

"If anyone in the United States can do it, you can," Lambert said he replied. He explained he realized Lindbergh was potentially a great flier, principally because of the unerring, deft movement of his hands.

When Lambert asked the cost of the flight the answer was $14,000 and then Lindbergh, with a broad grin, added, "I've already raised $2,000."

"That's quick work," Lambert declared. "Who contributed that?"

"I did," said Lindbergh. "It's my total savings"

Lambert immediately replied, "All right, you can count on me for $1,000 and on my brother Wooster (J. D. Wooster Lambert, wealthy sportsman of St. Louis and New York) for another thousand."

Backing Secured

Lindbergh saw other St. Louisans and two days later had raised $15,000, in addition to the Lamberts, those who backed him were his employers, Major William B Robertson and Frank H. Robertson, and Harold M. Bixby, Harry F. Knight, Harry H. Knight, E. Lansing Ray and Earl C. Thompson.

On Feb. 15, 1927, the first check, Lambert's for $1,000, was handed Lindbergh and two weeks later he went to San Diego to supervise construction of the "Spirit of St. Louis."

Every possible way of decreasing the weight of the plane to assure greater gasoline capacity received the flier's attention. For example, he permitted only two coats of paints, instead of the usual three.

That care in eliminating all unnecessary weight was illustrated even more, Lambert said, when Lindbergh prepared to take off in New York on May 20, 1927.

He took out a handful of silver and handed the money to a representative of his St. Louis backers.

"Why, you'll need that when you get across," Lindbergh was told. He replied leaving the coins made room for 14 additional ounces of gasoline. He had even designed his own boots because he could find none light enough for his purposes.

In all, Lambert said, Lindbergh's precision in eliminating every ounce of excess weight permitted him to carry 121½ extra gallons of gasoline, which was exactly the reserve amount of fuel in his tank when he landed at Le Bourget in Paris on May 21, 1927, just 33 hours and 29 minutes after he left New York.

Lambert paused frequently during his recollections to point out pertinent photographs or mementoes on the walls of the living room of his home. He has a strip of fabric from the "Spirit of St. Louis," one of its valve springs, and innumerable photographs of Lindbergh.

Called the "father of St. Louis aviation," Lambert began flying balloons in 1907—Lindbergh was then 5 years old—and airplanes in 1910. He purchased his first plane from the Wright Brothers and Orville Wright was his flying instructor. He trained balloonists at San Antonio during the world war.

SEES MORE WPA JOBS THIS YEAR

Estimate Eighty-Five Per Cent of Eligible Given Work Last Year

About eighty per cent of the relief clients eligible for work on WPA projects were employed last summer and the indications are, Administrator Frank Monroe said Thursday, that with the number of voluntary separations from the program, the percentage of men out of work to be employed this summer will be greater.

Instructions from headquarters, he said are that the specially certified drought farmers shall be released from the work rolls in order for them to return to their farm operations as fast as is possible and not damage the integrity of the projects. The voluntary separations, that is farmers voluntarily returning to their farm work from WPA projects, in the district are from thirty to forty a day.

"I do not think" said Mr. Monroe," that a cut of any size will have to be made at all.

No new assignment of WPA workers can be made to take the place of the drought farmers as they leave the program. Under the present plans said Mr. Monroe, it looks like few if any projects will have to be closed to meet the reduction in force, as those working on projects will on their completion, be transferred to other projects being worked.

Among the new projects is one to rebuild the large running horse barn on the east side of the race track at the Missouri State Fair grounds, to provide suitable accommodations for the running horses.

WOOD THANKS THE SENATE IN TALK

JEFFERSON CITY, May 20.—The thanks of organized labor in the state senate's approval of the pooled fund type of unemployment compensation law were delivered personally today by Reuben T. Wood, Springfield, state president of the American Federation of Labor and congressman from the sixth district.

Wood spoke from the rostrum of the senate after being requested to do so through a resolution introduced by E. A. Barbour, Jr., Springfield.

"I want to express deepest appreciation and thanks to this senate for passing a social security bill carrying with it widespread protection for working men and women, and for including in it the pooled type plan of insurance," he said.

The house has passed a bill containing the employer reserve type of fund, favored by the Associated Industries of Missouri.

"In all types of beneficial legislation we must recognize the principle that the strong must help protect the weak," Wood said.

"Through the pooled type compensation fund the big and stable industries will help protect employes in those industries which by nature are unstable and cut-throat."

DR. C. H. WEAVER, JR., INJURED IN ATTACK, IS HOME

Dr. Charles H. Weaver, Jr., who attended the Missouri Dental Association meeting in Kansas City the first of the week, returned home Wednesday evening accompanied by his father, Dr. C. H. Weaver, Sr.

Dr. Weaver, Jr., in an interview on his return said relative to an attack on him last Monday night while in the Keithley grill next to the Muehlebach hotel on Twelfth street in Kansas City that while eating at the place a man seemingly intoxicated entered and after a short time made an attack upon him.

Forced to defend himself Dr. Weaver broke his right thumb. He was slashed across the right cheek receiving a laceration which necessiated twenty-two stitches. He was given emergency medical attention at the Kansas City general hospital and later attended by a physician, a close friend.

The attack, according to Dr. Weaver, was entirely unprovoked.

MASS EXECUTION OF FORTY-FOUR BY FIRING SQUADS

All Men But One Who Had Been Convicted By Soviets

SHOOTINGS FOLLOW TRIAL CLOSELY

Came on Heels of Reported Daily Warnings on Spying Tactics

MOSCOW, May 20.—The Soviet government was disclosed today to have carried out the greatest mass execution of spies in three years, shooting 43 men and one woman convicted of espionage and sabotage plots, allegedly "under the orders of the Japanese secret service."

The spies were lined up before firing squads at Svobodny in the Far East on May 9.

The executions were the first of their type to be carried out since Joseph Stalin, secretary-general of the Communist party, last March called for greater vigilance to wipe out spying and sabotage, and declared "the enemy must be exterminated mercilessly."

The shootings took place shortly after the conclusion of the trial of the 44 before a military collegium of the supreme court.

A communique published in the newspaper, Pacific Star, at Khabarovsk, on the Manchoukuoan-Siberian border, 450 miles north of Vladivostok, said:

"A military collegium of the supreme court of the U. S. S. R. has examined the case of a group of Trotskyist espionage diversionists which acted under the leadership and according to the orders of the Japanese secret service in organizing railroad wrecks in the Far East."

The communique added that the 43 men and one woman had been condemned to death and "the sentence has been carried out."

Thousands of other oppositionists to the Soviet Russian government policies are known to be under arrest.

The Far Eastern executions came upon the heels of repeated daily warnings in the entire Soviet press to citizens against what was termed the espionage tactics of Japan and Germany.

The government also has expelled numerous foreigners from the Soviet Far East on suspicion of either espionage or sabotage activities for the Japanese.

All of those executed were Russians.

The intense drive to stamp out espionage and sabotage has brought daily arrests of persons suspected of being spies or the expulsion of suspicious foreigners who might be or become intelligence service agents.

The authorative newspaper Pravda says that even "spies court and marry unsuspecting Soviet girls in order to worm their way into our confidence."

"RED" JACKSON IS HANGED AT GALENA

GALENA, Mo., May 21.—Roscoe "Red" Jafkson, 36, was hanged here at 6 a. m. today for the murder of Pearl Bozarth, well-to-do proprietor of a poultry feed company, in 1934.

Five hundred townspeople and peace officers from southwest Missouri packed a 40-foot square planked stockade to see Sheriff Isaah H. Coin spring the trap. Jackson, who appeared calm, spoke briefly asking forgiveness for his deed.

Jackson's body was taken to Howard's Ridge, Mo., by his father, Andrew Jackson. Surviving are his parents, an estranged wife and four children, all of Paul's Valley, Okla.

The trap was sprung at 6:04 and Jackson was pronounced dead at 6:14.

Jackson killed Bozarth and took his money and automobile after the middle-aged Evansville, Ind., man offered him a ride near Brown's Branch, in Taney county. He was tried and convicted here on a change of venue.

OLD AGE ROUTS SCIENTISTS

Old age has put present-day scientists to rout, according to statisticans of a leading life insurance company. They say that no method as yet has been evolved by which the span of life can be materially increased, through extending the outstanding improvement in mortality attained during the past twenty years to include the group of persons past 75. They base their conclusions on the reduction in mortality effected since 1916 among the insurance company's industrial policyholders who number in the millions. While this decline has been "remarkable", it has not been shared equally by all groups, for the improvement ranges from 75 per cent for young children to less than 5 per cent for the group past 75 years of age.

"There are two factors responsible for this," the statisticans say. "First, certain diseases which were formerly common among children have been practically eliminated, whereas in the control of the degenerative conditions characteristic of later life there has been little progress. Second, death is inevitable. Those who do not succumb to acute disease or to external causes must sooner or later die from bodily deterioration.

"And the span of life—that is, the extreme limit of human longevity—seems to be essentially fixed, not amenable to prolongation by any means known to present-day science."

The decline of 75 per cent in the death rate among children, ages 1 to 4, was accomplished, the statisticans explain, because medical science and practice succeeded in dealing with the diseases peculiar to this period of life, such as diarrhea and enteritis and the communicable diseases of childhood, while mortality from tuberculosis, pneumonia and accidents—all common as causes of death among children—also showed outstanding improvement during the period. Deaths from diarrhea end enteritis were reduced by 90 per cent in the past 20 years, the death rate in 1916 having been 213.1 per 100,000 as compared with 21.3 in 1936. The diphtheria death rate dropped during the same period from 128.4 to 10.3, while the rate for measles declined from 89.9 to 6.2. The tuberculosis death rate among these children in 1936 was less than one-fourth of that in 1916, while the rate for pneumonia was less than one-third and the accident rate about one-half.

During the safest years of life—ages 5 to 15—the mortality improvement has amounted to approximately 50 per cent since 1916, due in large part to an 80 percent drop in deaths from tuberculosis. The age group—15 to 35—also experienced a 50 per cent improvement in mortality, with the greatest decline in the death rate—75 per cent—shown in tuberculosis, while puerperal causes came next with a drop of about 55 per cent. Tuberculosis, however, is still the chief cause of death among that group.

While a sizeable decline in the death rate occurred among the group 35 to 55, during those years the disease of old age begin to put in their appearance, and cancer, diabetes and the degenerative diseases are important causes of death.

From age 55 to 75, the mortality has declined less than 20 per cent in the 20 years since 1916. At this time of life, heart disease ranks as the first cause of death, and is responsible for over one quarter of all deaths. Cancer, cerebral hemorrhage, chronic nephritis, and pneumonia also rank high.

"But beyond age 75," the statisticians state, "there has been less than a 5 percent decline in the death rate since 1916. The mortality from cancer, heart disease, and accidents has actually increased during the period—1916-1936. There have been drops, however, in the death rate from influenza, pneumonia, cerebral hemorrhage and chronic nephritis. But there is, of course, little chance of any considerable improvement in the mortality in late life where the degenerative diseases predominate."

LONDON AND ITS TREES

London protects its trees. In building temporary stands at Westminster abbey for the coronation spectators, trees were untouched. They interfered somewhat with the view from the seats, but they held their own. No boughs were destroyed in order to yield more seats. In these stands space was at a premium. There was intense competition for them. The space occupied by trees was probably coveted by many, but the trees were preserved. Stands can be erected in short order, but trees are years in the growing.

If and when in London it is necessary to remove trees, young trees are transplanted immediately in all the areas where is space for trees to eat and breathe. London intends to have as many trees as it can and the temporary convenience of Londoners and their guests is never permitted to interfere with the standing trees, for they decorate streets and parkways as man's substitutes never can. The most ornate kiosk does not add to a street's appearance as a tree does.

Perhaps the chief trouble in this section is that trees grow rapidly and are many. Nature is prodigal with seedlings. They spring up and grow steadily if they are given a chance. If trees in this section were relatively scarce, there would be much greater protection for them. They would not be felled because somebody says they keep sun off the streets or yards. There is plenty of available farming land in this area without uprooting trees, which are windbreak and shade supplier.

If in this section trees were in an area where stands were to be built, instead of erecting stands around them, the builders would destroy the trees. It has been done and it will be done again unless tree friends are eternally on guard. Many fine trees in Sedalia have been spared in late years because friends have sprung to their protection. Many have fallen because friends were too late.

CANAL TRAFFIC

From New York Sun.

In March of this year more commercial vessels of 300 or over net tons, Panama Canal measurement, used the canal than in any other March in its history, and they carried the greatest tonnage of cargo ever recorded for the month. Their number was 536, against 526 in March of 1935 and March of 1929. The cargo figures are even more striking. Last year the total carried was 2,634,000 tons. This year it was 3,016,000. The corresponding figure for 1929 was 2,742,000

How seriously traffic through the canal was affected by the verious strikes of seamen in the recent past is disclosed by the record of commercial passage in the last twelve months. In October 482 vessels used the canal. In November the number was 368. In December it fell to 341. January saw a rise to 399; the passages in February were 377. With March the patronage of the canal went to its high mark, and consequently the tolls collected were the highest, reaching $2,355,149.04, against $2,293,874.51 for March of last year.

"PUPILS AREN'T FIREPROOF!"

Writing under the above title, in the New York Herald Tribune magazine, T. Alfred Fleming discusses the appalling problem of hazardous schools.

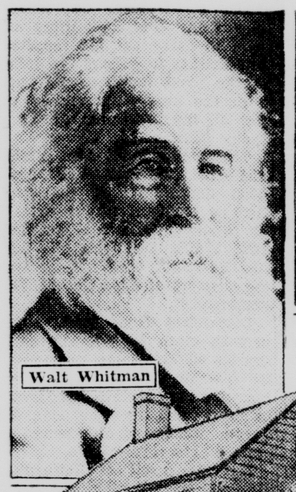
Mr. Fleming is an authority on this matter—formerly a clergyman, he happened to be present when the Collinswood school burned many years ago, and aided in the rescue. Thereafter he left the pulpit and gave his life to preaching the gospel of fire prevention. As a representative of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, he has inspected thousands of American schools, new and old, big and little—and he reports that two-thirds of them are fire traps. Every day, five school fires occur in this country—and only "dumb luck," to use Mr. Fleming's words, keeps them from becoming major tragedies.

Just how bad are our schools? They are unquestionably far worse than any parent imagines. Mr. Fleming has seen supposedly safe schools where the janitors thought fire extinguishers were insect sprays, and schools where students were notified ten minutes in advance of fire drills! He has gone through 40 schools in one city and found 200 inexcusable life hazards such as the excessive storage of gasoline in the building, 30 defective emergency doors, etc. As he says, "And after each new shock I thank God that we are so lucky."

Maybe the school your children attend is safe—and maybe it is not. And here is a matter where guesswork isn't enough—public opinion should demand that competent, disinterested engineers make a thorough inspection of every school plant, and their recommendations be followed. Pupils aren't fireproof!

Long Island Concerned Over Attempts to Sell Whitman's Birthplace

Plan to Convert Famous Poet's Home Into Roadhouse Stirs "Worshipers" as Celebration of 118th Birthday Nears



Walt Whitman

The tiny schoolhouse at Woodbury, Long Island, where Walt Whitman taught, is shown above; below, his birthplace, on Long Island, as it looks today.

By FRANK A. CULVER
Central Press Correspondent

HUNTINGTON, L. I., May 15.—Long Island, already turned historically-minded at the approach of its island-wide tercentenary celebration, has learned with consternation that one of its most important historical monuments, the birthplace of Walt Whitman, is up for sale . . . possibly as a road house.

On May 31, the 118th birthday of Walt Whitman, scores of literary folk and other Whitman admirers have been wont annually to visit the little New England type house amid the west hills, south of here, which Walt's father built and in which Walt himself spent much of his childhood and youth. May 31 of this year will mark the opening of the week set aside for Long Island's observance of the 300th anniversary of the founding of its first white settlement.

Stunning Blow

The number of pilgrims at the Whitman house on that day will be greatly increased by the crowds which the tercentenary celebration will attract. But reports have been circulated that even then workmen may be converting the shrine of Long Island's celebrated and internationally-famed poet into some sort of a drinking place. And the news is stunning to those who regard the Whitman house with veneration and affection.

Historical societies and private individuals have sought to buy the house but have been checked when the price was quoted at $30,000. No prospective buyer of the place, at the figure quoted, has been revealed as yet but it is hinted that the profits to be reaped from the commercialization of Whitman's birthplace could be considerable.

The present owners and tenants are Mr. and Mrs. John D. Watson, who bought the house in 1917 for a price quoted at "about $5,000." They have said that they desire to live in the west and must sell the Whitman homestead, and they assert that the $30,000 figure is not exorbitant. They point out that the old structure was rapidly decaying when they bought it and that their care probably has saved it from destruction.

The owners point out, also that the town of Southampton on Long Island spent $60,000 to acquire the house about which John Howard Payne is said to have written "Home, Sweet Home."

Associations

But whatever the fate of the Whitman house, nothing can destroy the association with young Walt that this Whitman country possesses. There is scarcely a spot in this village that is not redolent of Walt's wanderings about "Paumanok," his name for Long Island.

History tells that Walter Whitman, father of the poet and rugged son of New England farmer stock, lived in Huntington town prior to 1816, when he married Louisa Van Velsor, daughter of a wealthy Long Island Dutch farmer who lived at Cold Spring Harbor, a few miles west of here. Just after his marriage, Walter Whitman chose a sheltered spot in the beautiful west hills, about three miles south of here, on which to build, with his own hands, a home.

It was a rugged little house, built in the strong and simple New England manner, boasting three sections whose roofs descended like stairsteps. Shingled without, it was a warm and intimate refuge. Walter cultivated an orchard there, and built a barn; and there were fertile fields around.

There was born Walt Whitman, second son in a family of seven, on May 31, 1918. He was only four when his parents moved from the west hills house to Brooklyn, but he had played among the grassy nooks and the close-set trees of the west hills and he did not forget them. When the family was in Brooklyn, Walt used to live in anticipation of infrequent visits to his Grandfather Van Velsor's farm at Cold Spring Harbor. And before he was 17 years of age, he had returned to the scenes of his infancy, roving Paumanok from the quaint little village of Jamaica to the wilds of Montauk Point.

Widely Read

Walt was an omnivorous reader. He would lie on sandy beaches, reading and listening to the gentle lapping of the waters of Long Island Sound; or perhaps he would lean with his book against a tree in a nearby grove. An imaginative mural painting in a Huntington hotel, the work of H. Willard Orlipp, portrays Walt so reclined, communing with the spirts of those humanities to which he later gave voice in his "Leaves of Grass."

When he was about 17, Walt became an itinerant school teacher and newspaper writer in the Long Island village. He would give up the school room for the print shop; then the print shop for the school room.

In the hamlet of Woodbury ,on the Jericho turnpike near here, there still stands a tiny school house in which Walt once taught. And here in Huntington, the weekly newspaper, "The Long Islander," of which Walt was the founder and first editor, is preparing soon to celebrate its 100th anniversary.

Walt's field soon spread beyond Long Island, but he returned to Paumanok many times.

Today Walt Whitman's first home is an attractive place, surrounded by shrubbery and greenward. There is an orchard, and a well. It is furnished with antique pieces from the Watson family's relics, and it houses a considerable amount of Whitmania.

Long Islanders, interested in maintaining the Walt Whitman home as such recall the lines that Walt wrote about it in his "Poem of Jays"—

"O to go back to the place where I was born!
To hear the birds sing once more!
To ramble about the house and barn, and over the fields once more,
And through the orchard and along the old lanes once more..."

LIME NOW FOR CLOVER NEXT SPRING

More uniform and vigorous growing stands of red and sweet clover will be secured in Pettis county when lime is applied six months to a year previous to the time of seeding the clover, says J. U. Morris, county extension agent.

By applying the lime several months ahead of the clover seedings more of it is in available condition for the young clover seedlings when they begin growth. An abundance of available lime in the soil increases the number of nitrogen gathering nodules which cause the formation of more nitrates in the soil, thus promoting more rapid growth in the early life of the plant. This in turn better enables the plant to withstand unfavorable weather conditions which may occur later in the season.

Lime may be applied to this year's corn or soybean land that is to be seded to clover in 1938. It can be applied any time after the ground is plowed; either before or soon after these crops are planted. As the corn or soybeans are cultivated, the lime is thoroughly mixed with the surface soil. By applying lime on these crops this spring it will have nearly a year to dissolve and become available for the young clover seedlings that will be seeded next spring.

The present supply of available limestone at commercial quarries in Pettis county is sufficient to take care of the present orders.

FERTILIZING ON CORN FOUND TO BE PROFITABLE

Kind For Use Depends Largely on Organic Matter In Soil

The use of commercial fertilizers on corn in normal years can be expected to give profitable returns, says J. U. Morris, county agent. This is especially true if the fertilizer is used in hill or row applications instead of applying it broadcast.

When corn is checked, best results are secured when the fertilizer is placed in bands 6 to 8 inches long at each side of the hill. For drilled corn, the fertilizer is placed in the soil in bands on each side of the seed along the entire length of the row. Bands one inch or less in width are most satisfactory where fertilizer with around 20 per cent plant food are applied. In both the checked and drilled corn, the fertilizer should be separated from the seed by one-half to three-fourths inch of fertilizer—free soil and placed so it will be about one inch below the seed to seed level or slightly above.

To place fertilizer in a lateral band on each side of the hill-dropped or drilled corn, the fertilizer depositor of the corn planter should carry a deflector, or similar device, to split the fertilizer stream into halves, and a hood, or similar device, to hold away the incoming soil until the fertilizer has reached the bottom of the furrow. A little soil should cover the seed while the kernels are still under the protection of the deflector; also the faces of the hood should be so sloped as to allow a part of the incoming soil to drop downward into place.

The kind of fertilizer to use on corn depends largely on the amount of organic matter in the soil, and the crops grown on it in recent years. On the gray prairie soils of Pettis county, where the land has been manured in the last year or two or where a good clover crop has grown in the last three or four years, an application of 75 to 125 pounds of a 2-14-4 fertilizer per acre in hill or row is recommended. Seventy-five to 125 pounds of 4-12-4 should be used where no clover or manure has been used. On the darker more fertile prairie soils an application of 75 to 125 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate per acre in hills or rows is recommended. When either manure has been applied or a good clover crop has been grown in the past few years, a 2-12-4 fertilizer at the same rate should be applied where no clover or manure is used.

On the shallow gravelly soils of Pettis county, a complete fertilizer such as a 4-14-4 at the rate of 75 to 125 pounds should be used.

On bottom land that is extremely high in fertility, fertilizers are not likely to pay.

Family of Six, Hitch-Hiking Across Country, Visit Sedalia

This family which visited Sedalia while hitch hiking its way to St. Joseph received money and food from the police department. Members of the force purchased milk and fruits for the children and gave the parents money from the police fund. The family was last seen going north on highway 65.

A family of six traveling across the country, "hiking" and pushing a two-wheel cart, attracted downtown shoppers Tuesday evening when they parked their cart and four children at Third street and Ohio avenue.

The family sun-tanned from being out-of-doors appeared very healthy and exclaimed satisfaction with their trip.

The father and mother Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mullet, with their next two oldest William 8 and Johnny, 10, pushed the cart loaded with a tent, camp stove, cooking utensils, and two smaller children Laura 4, and Jessie eighteen months.

They are enroute to St. Joseph, Missouri, from Fort Worth, Texas, and have been on the road for several weeks. They had gone from the original home, La Crosse, Wis., to Osceola, Arkansas, and had to leave there when the flood several weeks ago took away their meager home.

At Fort Worth, the father, a general handy-man, who repairs stoves, lawn mowers and makes willow furniture, found things "tough" so they decided to go back to St. Joseph where they had resided several years ago. They expect times to be better at St. Joseph, Mr. Mullet said.

The father is one-fourth Mohawk Indian, while Mrs. Mullet is one-half Otoe Indian.

Mr. Mullet said he might camp near Sedalia for a few days and try and make a little change before going on to Buchanan county.

HIGH PRAISE FOR PROGRESS EDITION

C. E. West, One Oak Avenue, Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, Colo., a former Sedalian, was one of many who enjoyed the Sedalia Democrat and Capital's recent Progress Edition, as is stated in the following letter from him:

"Sunday, May 16, 1937.

"The Sedalia Democrat,

"Dear Sir:

"One could hardly have lived the greater part of a life time in Sedalia and not get a great thrill over the reading from page one through of your splendid publication of your 'Progress Edition,' which was sent in through the thoughtfulness of some friend. A newspaper that any city could be proud of, clear, clean and most readable in every particular, and the illustrations that make the heart beat faster. And as we read and reread the George W. Ferrell poem, 'Sedalia,' what a flood of happy memories it brings to mind, and while she has gone through her Gethsemane has always come out with a stiff upper lip, and more determined to succeed, and has. And all success that has come or may in the future to Sedalia or its habitants, we stand with our hat off in hearty congratulations. And nothing too good will ever come to Sedalians whose friendship we prize more than can be expressed, all of which Mrs. West gives heartily.

Cordially yours,
Chas. E. West."

TWO IN THEFTS OF AUTO TO THE REFORM SCHOOL

"Ike" Kays Tells Court He'd "Rather Be There Than Like I Am"

"I don't mind going to Boonville. I'd rather be over there than here like I am, with no place to stay," Charles "Ike" Kays, 14 year old Sedalia youth told offifers yesterday morning after he and Roscoe Caldwell, 17, had been sentenced to three years in the state reformatory at Boonville for the theft of two automobiles. The sentence was pronounced by Circuit Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, sitting as juvenile judge, before whom a hearing had been held.

A third member of the group implicated in the theft of the two cars, Boyce Barber, 18, was bound over to action of the criminal court Tuesday. He is held in jail.

The boys were charged with the theft Sunday night of a car owned by Caldwell Drummond, 401 South Park avenue, driving it to Stover, and there taking one belonging to Rapp and Rapp, undertakers, in which they returned to Sedalia.

Barber is under parole from the state reformatory at the present time, having been sentenced for breaking into the building at 104-106 East Fifth street. Caldwell was in juvenile court in 1934 on a burglary and larceny charge, but was placed under parole. Kays, while never sentenced, was in juvenile court some months ago when his brother was sent to Boonville on a car theft charge.

Judge Hoffman, in sentencing Kays expressed regret, stating that Kays' mother is dead, his father is not here, his grandparents do not want him to live with them, and he has hardly had a chance. He commended the boy for truthfulness, stating that in all his transactions with the law he has never been known to misrepresent or to excuse his own actions.

Kays said he knew how to drive a car at the age of nine years.

Mrs. Frank S. Leach of Sedalia, is in Lakeland, Fla., which is one of that state's most beautiful cities, and on May 27 and 28, her large opera-drama "World Crusaders" is to be presented at the huge city auditorium. Over 1,000 persons will be in her cast. The music will be played by the Symphony orchestra, a brass band and sung by a large chorus and individual singers. The following seven cities in central Florida will participate, Winter Haven, Lake Wales, Frostproof, Bartow, Fort Meade, Haines City and Plant City. This is the fourth time that Mrs. Leach has been called to present her own extravangazes and operas in Florida.

All of the churches in Lakeland are sponsoring "World Crusaders" and large committees have been appointed in each church to cooperate with the Sedalia author and director. All civic, literary, musical and military organizations together with the schools and Southern College are assisting in this great undertaking. Mrs. Leach says that the ministers and church people of the city have been so nice to her, that she hardly knows to which denomination she really belongs.

While in Lakeland this Sedalia lady has been royally entertained. She was guest of honor and speaker at the Tuesday Music Club luncheon, and she was also guest speaker at the annual luncheon of Sorosis, the courtesies of the club were extended to her during her stay in Lakeland.

En route through Mrs. Leach was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Phillips at their beautiful home overlooking one of the lovely lakes in the city of Orlando.

Mrs. Phillips is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Highleyman of this city, and they have carved for themselves an important place in the business and social lite or Orlando.

Mrs. Phillips honored Mrs. Leach with a very beautiful luncheon at which 30 guests sat down to a perfectly appointed and beautifully decorated table. Gladiolas and calla lillies formed the handsome decorations and clever imported place cards designated the table places.

Mrs. Phillips' blonde beauty was enhanced on this occasion, as she wore a gown of navy blue chiffon with the palest of green accessories, and Mrs. Leach wore an embroidered shell pink net over pink satin that was an exact copy of the gown worn by Mrs. Alfred Landon, for the festivities at the time of his acceptance speech when he was nominated for president.

Mrs. Leach will return home here shortly after the completion of her large work in Lakeland.

SPECIAL HONORS TO MRS STUCKEMAN

Mrs. A. D. Stuckeman of Sioux Falls, S. D., a former Sedalian, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Brandt, was given special recognition on Mother's Day by a writer for the Daily Argus-Leader of Sioux Falls, which paper also carried a large picture of Mrs. Stuckeman.

Referring to Mrs. Stuckeman the writer states:

"Perhaps no woman in South Dakota has ever heard the sweet name of 'Mother ring in her ears, more often than has Mrs. A. D. Stuckeman, assistant superintendent at the Children's Home.

"And to look at her picture, which is a splendid likeness, isn't it easy to understand how everyone of the 5,000 who have passed through the home in the past 30 years before going into homes of foster parents, called her 'Mother?' Nearly all of these children have been placed in South Dakota homes—almost one-half of them know who their mother was for a period of their lives. Some of them in faraway places remember her through the mails frequently; others, who have become successful, married and have families, wend their way here to visit with her and talk over the happy days they spent at the Home with her.

"Many of these children are enjoying life in the best homes of the state; simple people, some of them, thrifty and economical; others have been adopted into wealthy and prominent homes; sisters have met at college that were lost since childhood. Some have met at the time of their marriages, at their own request and 'Mother' Stuckeman has always carefully paved the way of meeting.

"Mrs. Stuckeman advises parents to tell children of their adoption at an early age.

"Mrs. Stuckeman has two sons of her own, Bob of Sioux Falls and Karl D., of Los Angeles, Calif. She is a member of the Methodist church. Her busy fingers are never idle, as when duties at the home are over for the day, she passes her evening in doing needlework which is envied by the finest artists in the city."

PHILIP SNOWDEN NOTED BRITON DIES

LONDON, May 15.—Philip Snodden, first viscount of Ickornshaw, former chancellor of the exchequer and a guiding spirit of the British labor movement, died today of a heart attack. He was 72 years old.

The viscount, who overcame invalidism to rise from obscurity in Lancashie and twice hold the purse strings of the British empire, died at 4 a. m. at his country home, Tilford, Surrey.

He had been confined there for some time in ill health. His widow, the Viscountess Snowden, explained on the day before the coronation of King George VI that Lord Snowden was not well enough to atend.

His illness, however, apparently had not seemed critical, for Viscountess Snowden was present and was a guest last night at a state ball at Buckingham palace.

She was informed here of her husband's death and left immediately for Tilford.

Viscount Snowden, who was raised to the peerage by the late King George V in 1931, won his sovereign's recognition for his help in forming the national government in 1931 with Ramsay MacDonald as prime minister.

Lord Snowden later split with MacDonald over repeal of the land tax and bitterly assailed his erstwhile colleague from his seat in the house of lords.

When a storm broke over the Ottawa tariffs bill in 1932 Viscount Snowden remained an uncompromising free trader and sent his resignation to MacDonald.

YOUNG WANDERERS CEASE ROAMING

ST. PAUL, May 15.—America's wandering youths are back home again.

The boys and girls who aimlessly roamed the United States a few years ago are now at work or in school, Colonel Hulda Smith of Chicago, commander of the northeast area of the Volunteers of America, reported today at the organization's annual national council.

She expressed the opinion the national youth administration and the CCC camps "had a wonderful influence" on the youthful itinerants of the depression while business, industry and agriculture had removed many of them from the road.

"A few years ago, when the depression was at its worst, so many of our young people started drifting," she said. "Drifting from one town to another—from their homes to parks and hobo 'jungles' in strange cities—from wholesome circles to petty thievery and crime—in short, from bad to worse.

"The problem of the wandering youth was becoming a menace. Of course, the volunteers and other charitable organizations were doing what they could, but were overwhelmed. Nightly the police stations in the larger cities were filled with young boys, and girls occasionally, who should have been at home with their parents or at school.

"Most of the child hoboes, as they were called, were not homeless orphans or waifs, but were children of parents who were unable to survive the depression. In a great many cases the boys sensing they were a burden to their parents, left their homes to seek jobs in other places. Usually, of course, they didn't find any.

"But wandering youth, at least the young hobo type so common a few years ago, has practically disappeared from the United States."

FORMER ADJ. GEN. EARP NAMED HIGHWAY P...

Appointed By Gov. Stark Chairman of State Highway Commission

JEFFERSON CITY, May ... Former Adjutant General Claude C. Earp of Nevada, Mo., was appointed by Governor Lloyd C. Stark this afternoon as chairman of the State Highway Commission.

Earp's appointment as successor to George F. Olendorf, Springfield advertising man, ends several months' speculation on the personnel of the commission under the new administration.

In a press release announcing the selection of the new chairman, the governor's office said Olendorf "resigned on account of the demands of his private business.

Olendorf, however, will continue to serve until Earp's appointment is confirmed by the senate. Earp, one of the owners and publishers of the Nevada Daily Mail and a Democrat in politics, will serve for a term ending December 1, 1941.

Besides Earp, the highway commission will be composed of H. G. Simpson of Charleston, also a Democrat, and Robert D. Brooks of St. Louis and Edward W. Gray of Maryville, Republicans.

Simpson, who was reappointed last week, will be the only hold-over from the Park administration.

Earp, who is 50 years old and a native of Barton County, served as Adjutant General of Missouri the last six weeks of the Park administration, following the death of Gen. Harold W. Brown, also of Nevada. He holds a commission of colonel in the Missouri National Guard, with which he had been connected a quarter of a century.

The new highway commission chairman took a prominent part in the $75,000,000 road bond issue campaign in 1928, of which Stark was general chairman.

Stark said Earp was "recognized as a student of highway matters and has long been a good roads booster."

Brooks was named early in the Stark administration to succeed the late Col. Arthur T. Nelson of Lebanon. Gray was appointed May 3 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation in January of H. B. Pyle of Mound City.

DRIVERS LICENSE BILL IS SIGNED BY GOV. STARK

Measure Be Effective Ninety Days After Assembly Adjourns

LAW REQUIRES 25 CENTS LICENSE FEE

Qualifications Are To Be Over 16 and Capable to Drive Car

By The Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 17.—Governor Lloyd C. Stark today signed the state-wide drivers' license bill he asked to "stop mass murder on the highways" with the statement "I have read it carefully and think it will do a great job toward making our highways safer."

The measure will not go into effect until 90 days after adjournment of the legislature, which according to present plans should make the first license cards go out within a few days of September 1.

V. H. Steward, state motor vehicle commissioner, has estimated from 1¼ to 1½ million individuals will be licensed under the act.

The governor said he could "not say too much in praise of Senator Michael Kinney, who introduced the bill, of Senator Phil Donnelly, who worked it out in its present form, and of committee members and other legislators who made this law possible after so many years of striving."

"I think that the fact a careless driver will have a record of his convictions listed on the back of his license and be subject to its suspension or revocation will have an excellent effect," the governor added.

He referred to omission of examination requirements, but said he felt the law would be "almost as effective" without it.

The new law will require a 25 cent license fee for a two-year period.

No physical or other examinations are required, other than submission of "qualifications to drive an automobile." Those under 16 will not be licensed.

Driving permits will be revoked for conviction on charges of driving while intoxicated, manslaughter, involving use of a motor vehicle, or any felony involving use of a motor vehicle. They may be suspended—or in some cases revoked—for lesser offenses.

SCHOOL REVENUE MUCH DISCUSSED

JEFFERSON CITY, May 18.—The share of state general revenues which will go to schools was a much-discussed question among legislators today following senate passage of the 2 per cent sales tax bill.

Whether it will be the one-third traditionally allowed, the 25 per cent fixed as a minimum by the constitution, or something between those two figures was yet to be determined.

A factor is the "relief" bill for high tax school districts, pending in the senate education committee after passage by the house. Two substitute proposals were submitted the committee last night to meet objections of rural districts, but no action was taken pending a later session at which Lloyd W. King, state school superintendent, will be heard.

Albert M. Clark, Richmond, president pro tem of the senate and highly influential, said yesterday in floor debate on the sales tax "I do not know that I will vote to give one-third to the schools, in fact I think I will not.

"If we increase the sales tax to 2 per cent, even with the exemptions, the schools will get one-third of the general revenue nine or ten million dollars more this biennium than last. I do not believe we can justify this amount in view of other conditions."

During the past biennium the schools received approximately 17 million dollars. Estimates are that general revenue will reach 80 millions during the present biennium, which would give the school fund more than $26,600,000 on a one-third basis.

EXECUTION BILL PASSES SENATE

JEFFERSON CITY, May 19.—(AP)—Smothering an attempt to delay action, the house of representatives passed the lethal gas execution bill Tuesday afternoon by a vote of 85 to 38.

The measure, which provides for the carrying out of death sentences in the state prison here, will go back to the senate for concurrence in a minor amendment. The present capital punishment law provides for hanging of condemned men in the counties in which they are convicted.

Charges of violation of rules of parliamentary procedure were hurled in the house during nearly two hours' debate. Little discussion was on the bill itself, however.

P. Lauf of Jefferson City, leading opponent of the measure which was sponsored by Senator Virgil Jones of Kennett, unsuccessfully attempted to tack a score of amendments on the bill, but they were voted down, one after another, as he began to submit them.

COUPLE CONFESS KILLING MOTHER WITH A HATCHET

Because She Would Not Hurry Dinner So They Could Play

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 19.—(AP)—Statements which a Bayonne detective said blonde Gladys MacKnight, 17, and her ex-sweetheart, Donald Wightman, 18, made confessing the hatchet slaying of the girl's mother, were admitted Tuesday as evidence at the trial of the pair. Both Gladys and Donald were quoted in the statements as saying he held the girl's mother, Mrs. Helen MacKnight, 47, Bayonne club woman, while Gladys hacked her to death with the hatchet, after an argument because the mother "wouldn't hurry dinner" so they could play a game of tennis.

Counsel for the young couple, battling independently to save them from the electric chair, indicated in fiery cross-questioning they would try to show the "confessions" were obtained under duress.

"Had you and Gladys ever talked before of injuring Mrs. MacKnight?" Donald's statement quoted a police officer.

"Just in a joking manner," he was quoted as responing.

"Both of us would say we'd like to kill her because she would object to us going to a show or having an appointment."

"Do you know why Gladys should want to kill her mother?"

"Well, for one thing she (Mrs. MacKnight) was very strict and always nagging her."

"Did you try to stop Gladys from killing her?"

"No. x x x it wouldn't have been any use, and I was slightly under the weather."

Both the girl's and the boy's statement quoted them as saying they had had several beers earlier in the afternoon—"three or four glasses, at Hendricksons Beer Gardens."

Donald's "confession" said: "Mrs. Mac told Gladys 'If you want your supper before the rest of the family, you'll have to get it yourself.'

"Then quite an argument arose. Gladys said to me to hold her mother."

"I held Mrs. MacKnight. I put an arm around her chest and my hand over her mouth. I saw Gladys with the hatchet in her hand and knew what she was going to do.

"Gladys raised her hand to strike. I do not remember how many times Gladys struck. Then I let go, and she (the mother) fell.

Gladys' "confession" said her mother "made a funny noise like a sob or moan," when the first blow struck.

AUTHORITY GIVEN ON TREASURERS

JEFFERSON CITY, May 19.—Governor Lloyd C. Stark was authorized by the legislature today to appoint county treasurers in the 74 counties of the state in which the office was abolished the first of the year.

Final action on the bill by T. A. Shockley, Pulaski County, re-establishing the office was taken in the house this morning by accepting senate amendments and repassing the measure, 98 to 23.

What little opposition there was to the bill came generally from a group who said the measure had been previously passed with the understanding that the 25 per cent increase in pay given collectors when they took over the treasurers' duties would be cut off.

The house bill providing for this decrease was defeated in the senate.

During debate today, Speaker J. G. Christy announced the governor had requested him to tell the house he had opposed the bill originally under a misunderstanding.

The governor had first thought the collectors were given an increase in pay for extra duties assumed, Christy said. The governor said he later was informed the pay increase was to take care of a previous salary decrease.

Hardly Possible!

"Here, Aunt," said the returned traveler, "is a franc I brought you from Paris as a souvenir."

"Thank you," said the dear lady, "I wish you would have brought me one of the Latin quarters I read so much about."

MRS. E. TIERNAN COLLAPSES IN A NEW YORK JAIL

Accused in Murder of Her Child 7 and Burning Her Body

NEW YORK, May 19.—Sobbing violently, Mrs. Helen Tiernan, 28-year-old widow accused of the "Babes in the Wood" torch-axe murder of her daughter, Helen 7, collapsed in the Riverhead jail today.

Dr. Albert E. Payne, prison physician, administered a restorative. He said her pulse was "extremely rapid" and that she showed signs of "deep emotional exhaustion."

Restored to consciousness, the blonde alleged slayer dozed fitfully on her jail cell cot.

Earlier, a prison attendant said, Mrs. Tiernan begged for information on the condition of her son, Jimmy, aged 5, whom she also assertedly sought to kill last Saturday during a picnic outing in the woods of Brookhaven, Long Island.

"How is Jimmy?" she cried, according to the attendant. "I hope he's better. I hope he is taken in by some good family."

Police said the woman had confessed that she attempted to "get rid of the children" so she would have more room in her shabby West Side apartment in which to entertain her sweetheart, George Christodulus, 29-year-old Greek restaurant worker.

In one of her three alleged confessions, police said, Mrs. Tiernan accused Christodulus of helping her in the crime, charging that he struck both of the small victims with an axe and that she then cut their throats.

Later, in her third statement, she cleared Christodulus of any connection with the saying. He was held as a material witness.

PROF. KRUEGER TO INDIANA COLLEGE

The St. Paul's College Board of Control granted a peaceful release to its president, Prof. O. Krueger at its meeting last Friday upon his urgent request so that he might accept the offered presidency of Concordia College, Ft. Wayne, Ind., his former Alma Mater from which he graduated in 1911.

In 1914 the professor completed his studies at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, at which time he was called to Rolla, Mo. Next he had charge of a congregation in Orchard, Nebraska. Sixteen years ago he accepted the call to St. Paul's in Concordia as instructor of History and English.

After Prof. Kappel's death Feb. 1925 he temporarily took charge of the presidency and this position was made permanent in May 1925. There he served as president twelve years.

During the time that the professor was a member of St. Paul's faculty he has served the church with his gifts in various ways. At different times he acted as vacancy pastor for Knob Noster, Liberty, Waverly, California, Warrensburg and Kansas City, and started the mission in Clinton. He frequently occupied the pulpit for missionary meetings and other occasions, served as president of zone two, Missouri District, Walther League for ten years and as president of the Concordia League for twelve years.

The professor was likewise a member and vice-president of the Board of Education of Concordia high school, a member of the Concordia Chamber of Commerce, and also a member of the Lutheran Benevolent Association.

In 1931 the professor visited Palestine and then gave lectures on his trip in Missouri and the neighboring states.

Fulkerson, chairman of the public buildings committee, and passed by the unanimous vote of the council authorized and instructed the mayor and building committee to make a bid to the United States government for the old postoffice building on the southeast corner of Second stsreet and Lamine avenue, and in the event said bid is accepted to make purchase of same.

A letter to the city from the state director of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works read by the club stated that he had received notice from the Washington office to the effect that a new grant policy is being effected. Under the new policy the amount of grant on any particular project, for which an allotment has been heretofore made, will depend upon the amount of wages to be paid to workers on the project who are actually taken from the certified relief rolls.

On this new basis of making grants, the letter states, it will be necessary that the city be in a position to finance initially 100 per cent of the cost of the proposed project by sale of its securities to the P. W. A. or to others, or by other means. If the city's securities are purchased by the P. W. A. these securities must be for one hundred per cent of the total cost of the project and the grant earned would be paid through the cancellation, as of the date of purchase, of an amount of bonds equal to 115 per cent of the relief labor costs. If the city did not sell its securities to the P. W. A. the grant would be paid to it from time to time, at intervals not more frequent than thirty days, on the basis of audits made. Under the Emergency Relief Appropriation Act of 1936 pursuant to which a grant, if authorized, would be made, it would be necessary that the completion of the proposed project be substantially accomplished prior to July 1, 1938. The amount of the grant earned can not, in any event, exceed 45 per cent of the cost of the project.

By way of a report regarding the activities and negotiations between the city and the Sedalia Water Company for a reduction of water rates in the city of Sedalia, Mayor Bagby said: "I wish to report that as a result of a conference with the representatives of the Water Company, myself and the city council recently, we have made a demand for reduction of the water rates in this town in conformity with the recommendations of our engineers. The Water Company, in turn, through its representatives, is submitting our demands and requests to its parent company in the east and the local representatives of the company have promised us that they will give us some definite answer as to what will be done regarding our demands as speedily as possible, and in any event, within the next twenty to thirty days."

S. T. Timborious, chairman of the streets and alley committees announced that the city's new street maintainer had arrived and is in use.

Permission was given the fire and water department, Ernest Martin chairman, to purchase 400 feet of hose and to the sewer and sanitation department to buy $175 worth of tile for the septic tank in southeast Sedalia. Permission must be given each department by the entire council to make any purchase over $100.

BURNED SEVERELY POURING OIL ON KITCHEN FIRE

Mrs. Margaret Lewis, wife of Orval C. Lewis, 113 South Grand avenue, received painful and serious burns about her body and arms about 7:45 o'clock Sunday morning, when an oil can from which she was pouring coaloil on a fire, exploded. Mr. Lewis received burns on his arms and his hair was singed when he tore his wife's burning clothing from her body.

Mrs. Lewis had gone into the kitchen and was preparing to build a fire and start breakfast. She had started the fire and then took the large can of oil into her arms and started to pour the oil on the fire and before she could drop the can it exploded throwing oil over the entire room.

Mr. Lewis was lying across a bed in an adjoining room and hearing the explosion ran into the kitchen and began rearing the clothing from his wife, rushed her to his mother's home, Mrs. Minnie Lewis at 115 South Grand avenue, returned and grabbed their small daughter Betty Joan Lewis tossing her out a window. Leroy Laughlin, son of Mrs. Lewis was awake and in fighting the fire received slight burns on his hands.

Upon the arrival of the fire companies and learning of the woman being burned Chief John C. Lueck for the first time had an opportunity to use the first aid kit on the fire truck in treating a burned person.

While other firemen fought the fire, Chief Lueck with fireman L. "Dutch" Gordy obtained the equipment and began to spray a solution of Hexyton on Mrs. Lewis. The solution a mixture of hexylresorcinol, tannic acid and glycerine, gave almost immediate relief to Mrs. Lewis. The solution forms a coating over the burns sealing them from the air. Two spraying treatments were used.

Mrs. Lewis was burned about her left breast, her face, arms and hands. According to Dr. A. E. Monroe and Mr. Charles McNeil, who treated Mrs. Lewis, the burns were of a second degree nature, and although painful and serious they are not considered critical.

The new first-aid equipment was placed in service last October 4, 1936, and although several minor cases of burns have been treated by the firemen, the burns of Mrs. Lewis were the first treated with the spray gun. It was said by the firemen, had they not given this treatment the patient would have suffered intense pain under the old time treatment of other fire burn medicines. When used, the Hexyton treatment gives almost immediate relief.

Fire damage to the residence and furnishings amounted to several hundred dollars. Insurance was carried to cover part of the losses.

JUSTICE WILLIS VAN DEVANTER TO RETIRE JUNE 2

Makes Decision Known In a Letter Sent The President

ACTS BEFORE VOTE ON REFORM BILL

Speculation As To Effect on The Court Fight Is Aroused

(By John T. Suter)

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter informed President Roosevelt today that he would retire from active service on the supreme court bench on June 2.

The 78-year-old jurist, who has been known as a member of the so-called conservative wing of the court, made his intention known in a letter to the President shortly before the senate judiciary committee met to vote on Mr. Roosevelt's court reorganization bill.

The chief executive's demand for "new blood" on the court has created an epochal national controversy.

Simultaneously, officials vested with high authority said there probably would be no more retirements from the court at this time. But others said that before the beginning of the fall term of the court in October, Justice Sutherland might take advantage of the retirement act.

Four other justices are eligible for retirement — Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices McReynolds, Brandeis, and Butler.

Van Devanter wrote this letter to Mr. Roosevelt::

"My dear Mr. President:

"Having held my commission as an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, and served in that court, for twenty-six years, and having come to be seventy-eight years of age, I desire to avail myself of the rights, privileges and judicial service specified in the act of March 1, 1937, entitled "an act to provide for retirement of justices of the supreme court," and to that end I hereby retire from regular active service on the bench —this retirement to be effective on and after the second day of June, 1937, that being the day next following the adjournment of the present term of the court.

"I have the honor to remain,

"Very respectfully yours,

"(Signed) Willis Van Devanter.

"The President."

(The act to which the justice referred permits justices over 70 to retire at full pay—$20,000 annually).

On Bench 26 Years

Van Devanter has been a member of the court since 1911. Considered a conservative by the administration, his departure from the bench will give President Roosevelt an opportunity to select a successor—his first appointment to the bench.

There was speculation over the effect Van Devanter's action would have on the court fight. Administration leaders, however, awaited word from the White House.

Until the beginning of the present term of court last October, Van Devanter had voted against administration action or laws 12 times and for it once. The sole exception was the Tennessee Valley Authority controversy and the decision did not involve constitutionality of the act.

This term, however, he voted in line with the administration nine times and against it three times. Two of the three votes were against application of the Wagner Labor Relations Act to the Associated Press and to manufacturing concerns. The other was against the administration's contention that the congressional resolution abrocating payment of obligations in gold applied to bullion as well as to coin.

If a justice whose views were those of administration lawyers had been on the bench instead of Van Devanter since Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated in 1933, it would have changed the outcome of only three major cases.

These involved the New York law establishing minimum wages for women, the railway pension act and the municipal bankruptcy statute, all five to four decisions.

Only 14 justices in the history of the nation have surpassed Van Devanter's 26 years of service on the high court.

Despite his age, Van Devanter appeared to be in excellent health.

Van Devanter attracted attention by his refusal to accept benefit payments under the Agricultural Adjustment Act which he helped to hold unconstitutional.

His wife, who died in 1934, had owned several Montana wheat farms operated by tenants. When the justice received the AAA benefit payments, he promptly returned the money.

"Because I voted for the invalidation of AAA," he explained, "I do not feel that I could accept the checks."

The justice was considered the court's authority on federal jurisdiction, public lands and water rights. Whenever a case involving those questions was under argument, he took a leading part in questioning the attorneys.

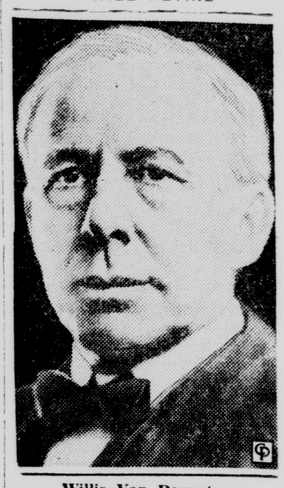
Arduous service in the Republican party and energetic years as a lawyer carried him to the supreme court by appointment of President Taft.

Three other presidents appointed him to high office:

Harrison named him chief justice of the Wyoming supreme court before it became a state.

McKinley appointed him as an assistant attorney general of the United States. Theodore Roosevelt made him a judge of the circuit court of appeals in 1903. He continued in that post until he was elevated to the supreme court.

WILL RETIRE



Willis Van Devanter

Associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States resigns effective June 2 to retire on $20,000 annually, full pay for members of the court.

TWO ARRESTED IN THEFT OF AUTOS MONDAY NIGHT

"Ikie" Kays In Stolen Car Captured After Speedy Chase By Police

Charles "Ike" Kays, Roscoe Caldwell and Boyce Barber were arrested early yesterday and charged with larcency of two automobiles one stolen from Caldwell Drummond, 401 South Park avenue, between 8:30 and 9:30 o'clock Monday night and the other stolen at Stover from Rapp and Rapp, undertakers.

The trio, it was said by the officers, stole the Drummond car and then drove to Stover. At Stover they report the boys saw the Rapp car and there Ikie is said to have decided to take it. Leaving Stover the three driving the two cars came back toward Sedalia.

About ten miles south of Sedalia the Drummond car, a 1937 Ford V-8, ran out of gasoline, and the three continued to Sedalia in the Rapp car, a 1936 Ford V-8 sedan. Barber went to his home 500 East Third street, while Caldwell went to the home of his mother, 410 East Fourth street, where they were arrested early yesterday morning after Kays had been arrested following a ten mile chase.

The police had been searching for the Drummond car all night, and after learning the car at Stover been stolen, conceived the thought that Kays was implicated. About 5 o'clock yesterday morning while in front of the Tullis-Hall Dairy on East Fifth street, Officers Anderson and Streeter saw Kays drive by going east.

They jumped into the police car, a 1937 Ford V-8 coach and gave chase. Kays drove out to highway No. 50 and headed east. The two cars were driven at a speed of more than seventy to seventy-five miles per hour. Nearing the farm-to-market road which turns south off of highway No. 50 this side of Otterville, Officer Anderson fired his pistol, the bullet going over the top of the car. Kays hearing the shots brought the car to a stop and laughed at the officers, saying "If I had had enough gasoline I could have outrun you as this car has a high speed gear."

Kays then told the officers who the other two boys were and upon returning to town the police went to the homes of Barber and Caldwell and placed them under arrest.

Barber was charged with larceny of an automobile in the court of Judge Charles W. Bente, sitting as ex-officio justice of the peace. He pleaded not guilty and waived his preliminary hearing, was bound over to the action of the June term of criminal court under a $2,500 bond. Unable to furnish the bond he was committed to the county jail.

Kays and Caldwell being of juvenile age will be taken before Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, juvenile judge. Kays is under parole at the present time for being implicated in several escapades in connection with automobile thefts.

Kays told the officers how the cars were stolen and of stealing a set of dealers license plates No. 610 and then throwing the plates of Mr.Drummond away putting in their place those which had been stolen.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET AT TIPTON

The festivities of the Tipton high school commencement period began on Thursday evening with the Junior-Senior banquet, which was held at the school building.

Miss Lucy Carpenter, sponsor of the Junior class, had spared no pains, as the beauty of the completed rooms showed. An old-fashioned garden scene was formed with lattice fences and archways. Cut flowers were used in profusion and against a background of spirea were hung Chinese lanters.

Seated with the twenty-five Juniors were their guests, the fifteen Seniors: Ray Sterling Pedego, Edward L. Roth, Arthur Pedego, Estel Kammerich, Mark M. Parman, James W. Kline, Ben W. Finley, Wilbur R. Newkirk, James Aquin Simpson, William Ralph Embry, James N. Groves, Margaret L. Homfeldt, Sylvia M. Groves, Forrest Ellen Pulley, John W. The program was as follows:

Reading: "Exit The Big Bad Wolf"—Eileen Thomas.

Talk—Superintendent C. A. Repp.

SYMPHONY ENDS SEASON WITH A FINE CONCERT

Large Group Attends and Enjoys Program at High School

A fine concert was presented to the public Sunday afternoon at Smith-Cotton high school by the Sedalia Symphony orchestra. Mr. Rosenthal had prepared a program of popular classics, worthy musically, and well known and well-loved by audiences everywhere.

The program opened with the Pilgrims Chorus from Tannhauser by Wagner. The hymn-like air is known to all from school days, and was well received. Next the orchestra played the first Movement of Schubert's Unfinished Symphony containing the familiar melody used by Sigmund Romberg in his Song of Love Waltz from the operetta Blossom Time. The program continued with the spirited Hall of the Mountain King from the Peer Gynt Suite by Greig, the weird melody given out by woodwinds and brass and accompanied by pizzicato strings. This is a number well loved by children and by grown-ups as well.

The concert continued without an intermission, the orchestra next playing gay selections from Victor Herbert's Sweethearts. The next offering was a group of three numbers, the familiar Londonderry Air, Paderewski's stately Minuet, and the colorful gypsy number. Two Guitars by Horlick.

Before the last number, Mr. Rosenthal, the conductor, thanked the orchestra for its fine cooperation and fine musicianship and the orchestra rose to take a bow.

The program closed with the Coronation March from Meyerbeer's opera the Prophite. At the close of the concert Mr. Rosenthal was recalled to the platform again and again in response to appreciative applause.

The afternoon was much enjoyed by the large group who attended, and it is hoped that these popular concerts will be made a regular annual event in the orchestra's schedule.

Miss Mary Hurlbut Missionary In Africa Writes of Rains There

Miss Mary W. Hurlbut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hurlbut, who is in missionary work in Africa, writes to her Sedalia relatives an interesting letter, as follows:

"April 4, 1937.

"Dear Family:

Now that school is over, we are as busy as ever, trying to catch up on things which had to be neglected during school.

Monday, we killed a pig and made lard. We are putting down some of the pieces for bacon. If you want bacon out here, it is up to you to make your own. This was a large animal according to the standards out here, and we had two five-gallon tins of lard as well as about a gallon of leaf lard and some bacon.

We are having a great deal of rain just now. Down nearer the coast, the railroad bridge was washed out, and train service was disrupted. The up-train goes down to the break and you go across to the train from the coast. As a result the bi-weekly train is apt to be about 12 hours late. The break occurred the day before our school commencement ,and the next day there should have been trains both up and down country. The train went down country, but not up and some of the girls had to stay over. Those who went on foot had a wet journey home as it rained every day. We finally had to hire a truck and send the girls home because it would be difficult to secure carriers to help so many girls for a three or four day trip, as they would have to carry food for the journey as well as their little trunks and bundles. Cornmeal for three or four days for a hundred people isn't pounded in a day, especially when it is raining so much.

Calueyo just came in from her village, and I must go down to greet her at once. It isn't polite to wait a long time to greet a visitor from away. If you wait long, it is better not to go at all.

With kindest regards to inquiring friends and love to you all, Mary."

Charles Gratiot, Jr., Had Distinguished Career In Early History of Missouri

Few names are more important in the early history of St. Louis than that of Gratiot. Cultured, wealthy and influential, the loyal support of the American government by this distinguished French family helped to pave the way for the American succession in Upper Louisiana. Charles Gratiot, Senior, founder of the family in St. Louis, rendered many services to the American cause during the Revolution.

Charles Gratiot, Junior, the subject of this sketch, was the eldest of four sons of Charles Gratiot and Victorie Chouteau, daughter of Madam Chouteau. He was born in St. Louis on August 29, 1786. A scion of two powerful St. Louis families whose widespread business connections and influence extended from St. Louis to Canada, New Orleans, the Atlantic seaboard and Europe, young Gratiot was a boy of seventeen at the time of the transfer of Louisiana to the United States.

Shortly after the transfer, in accordance with a suggestion of Governor Wilkinson that the sons of some of the leading French families be given positions in the U. S. Army with the view of realizing President Jefferson's wish to conciliate the French inhabitants Gratiot was appointed with three other French youths to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

Upon his graduation with distinction in 1806, Gratiot was assigned to the corps of U. S. engineers with the rank of second lieutenant. In this branch of the service in which he manifested more than usual abilities, he was to serve approximately thirty years during which time he rose rapidly to the foremost ranks of the army. Significantly, he was the only one of the four French youths appointed by Jefferson who recompensed the U. S. government by following a military career.

During and following the War of 1812, Gratiot rendered distinguished services. As chief engineer in General Harrison's army, he built Fort Gratiot at the foot of Lake Huron in Michigan. At Fort Meigs he took charge of a heavy battery and managed it with ability and effect during the severe siege of May 1-5, 1813. In 1815, he superintended the construction of fortifications on the Delaware River and from 1819-29 planned and erected the defenses of Hampton Roads. Not the least of his services was his appointment, about 1835, of young Lieutenant R. E. Lee to construct the works on Bloody Island and between the Island and the Illinois shore which saved the harbor of St. Louis from threatened destruction by encroaching sandbars in the Mississippi River. At the height of his power during a great era of internal improvements, it is significant that Gratiot, during his administration as Chief Engineer of the U. S. Army in charge of the Corps of Engineers and Engineering Bureau at Washington from 1828-1838, was responsible for the expenditure of nearly $5,000,000 for the construction of the national Cumberland Road, of $9,000,000 for the building of the Chesapeake and Ohio and Dismal Swamp canals and of another $9,000,000 for the erection of fortifications including those at Hampton Roads, and for other appropriatins besides. At the beginning of the ten years period, in March, 1829, in recognition of his "meritorious service," he was brevetted brigadier general in the U. S. Army at the age of forty-three.

Suddenly, climaxing his meteoric rise and brilliant achievements, on December 4, 1838, Gratiot was premptorily removed from office by President Van Buren. The dismissal came over a matter of difference with the accounting officer involving a sum approximating $30,000 which Gratiot claimed that he had a right to draw upon the government. Long years of litigation between Gratiot and the U. S. government ensued as a result.

Gratiot, reduced to supporting himself and his family as a clerk in the General Land Office, fought with bitterness and vehemence until his death on May 18, 1855, to clear his name and to obtain his reinstatement. Though the matter was eventually taken to the U. S. Sepreme Court, it was never cleared up. Interestingly, the committee on the judiciary reported in 1852 in part: "The career of the petitioner (Gratiot) in the Army of the U. S. .....is a matter of history that may justly excite the pride and admiration of every American citizen. .....It seems to the committee that both the pleas (of Gratiot) are reasonable and should receive attention, urged as they are with the earnestness of conscious rectitude by a gallant soldier....."

Though Gratiot was born and died in St. Louis, Missouri has never honored him. Michigan, however, has a Gratiot county, two Gratiot townships, a Gratiot highway and Gratiot streets in Port Huron and Detroit named for him.
